All Harper plans put into one vote

Voters will have an all-or-nothing choice when they go to the polls Sept. 27 to vote on a $12 million bond issue for Harper College.

The college board Thursday approved a ballot for the bond referendum combining all proposed projects into one question, asking for a yes or no vote. Included in the referendum package is a request for $7,050,000 for buildings on the Palatine campus. Also included is $2,106,000 to buy 117 acres in Arlington Heights for a second campus and $2,883,500 for construction on the second campus.

College board chairman Shirley Munson recommended the board not divide the issue to give voters a chance to vote separately on the second campus or completion of the first.

"We might face the problem that there would be certain areas of the district that would be favorable to building on the present campus, while another area would be very favorable to the idea of the second campus," she said. "We would not like to have that kind of sectionalizing take place. We would like to have the whole picture of the college's needs presented as a whole."

BOARD MEMBERS also discussed the possibility that a proposed referendum by Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 the same day as the Harper vote might cause problems for the college. Dist. 59 is considering asking for a tax rate increase expected to range from 15 to 40 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Board member Robert Moats said, "The way referendums have been going lately, I don't think it is favorable to us to have them (Dist. 59) hold theirs at the same time as ours, but I don't think we should be moving our date around at this point."

Board member William Kelly disagreed, saying, "I don't think timing is all that important. I think if an issue is good, it will pass, and if it isn't, it won't. It's almost superstitious to worry about timing."

The board agreed not to make any changes in the referendum date and also not to ask Dist. 59 to move its referendum to another day.

Arena financing stays clouded; no details told

Any new financing plans for a professional football stadium at Arlington Park Race Track were wrapped in secrecy following a nine-hour meeting Wednesday of officials from Arlington Heights, the Chicago Bears, Madison Square Garden Corp. and two bond consultants.

Details of the conference were formally released Thursday.

Other persons involved in the meeting declined to make extended comments on what direction village financing for the $26.9 million stadium project may take next. But it is believed the following points were discussed:

- Use of a parimutuel tax to back up stadium revenue bonds has been ruled out.
- Fees for a stadium feasibility report, estimated to cost $50,000, could be recovered from the stadium revenue bond issue. But Madison Square Garden has not yet agreed to pay the cost initially because of the risk that bonds might not be approved.
- The scope and cost of studies required by the bond underwriters, John Nuveen & Co. and Smith, Barney, Inc., have not been settled.

"There are going to have to be other meetings, but the (stadium) project is still very much alive," said LeMoine D. Stitt Jr., an attorney representing the Madison Square Garden Corp.

More details of the negotiations may come out Monday night when the Arlington Heights Village Board will consider a contract formally retaining Smith, Barney and Nuveen as the village's financial counselors.

On Aug. 4, the board voted 5 to 3 to engage the two firms, and directed Siegel to draw a contract cementing the deal.

The board action also stipulated that Madison Square Garden Corp. would have to pay the cost of all feasibility studies made prior to a final decision on the stadium project.

JAMES T. RYAN, Arlington Heights village president, is also scheduled to report to the village

'Oak Park model not workable here'

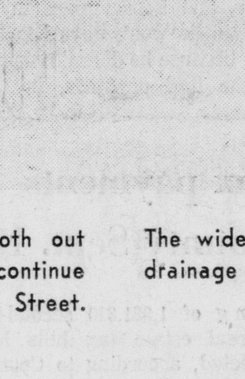
Keep development public: Griffin

A private downtown development corporation that has been successful in Oak Park probably is not a workable model for Arlington Heights, said Trustee David Groffin, chairman of the village board legal committee. said Tuesday.

The president of the Oak Park Development Corp., Arthur S. Replogle, outlined business redevelopment projects under way in Oak Park, including a downtown pedestrian shopping mall, to the legal committee this week.

Oak Park has a well-established downtown shopping center with several large department stores, and Griffin said he doubts a private development corporation would have the same success in Arlington Heights, where such stores are lacking.

"I don't think this has interest for Arlington Heights right at this time, although it is certainly something a development commission could look into," he said.



David Griffin

A DEVELOPMENT commission would be an arm of the village government, with fact-finding and advisory responsibilities.

Griffin has proposed forming an industrial development commission to encourage new business and industry in Arlington Heights.

"We (the village board) could not form a corporation. That would be strictly something for the business community to do alone," he said.

The Oak Park Development Corp. is a nonprofit organization which receives contributions from private industry and $2,500 a month from the Village of Oak Park.

The corporation acts to expedite downtown redevelopment projects in Oak Park, including the pedestrian mall, construction of a new village hall and redevelopment of the old village hall site, and a search for a motel project for the village.

GRIFFIN SAID a development commission in Arlington Heights probably would have a wider range of reponsibilities.

"We have advocates for housing, youth, senior citizens. I think we ought to have an advocate for the business community too," he said.

The legal committee has postponed consideration of the industrial development commission proposal to a meeting next month.

Weekend driving may be slick

A rainy outlook could make for slick roads this weekend in the five-state Midwest region, the U.S. Weather Service warns.

The extended outlook calls for partly cloudy skies with chances of thunderstorms daily. Highs throughout the weekend are expected to be in the 70s to 80s with lows in the 50s and 60s.

The Chicago Motor Club says roadwork on Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and Michigan highways could force some lane restrictions but should result in only minor traffic tieups if at all.

Work is continuing on I-90 north of Rockford and on Ill. Rte. 59 from the East-West Tollway to Butterfield Road and along Butterfield to Roosevelt Road. Other work is on I-80 from Ill. Rte. 23 to Minooka and along I-70 near Vandalia, Ill.

IN INDIANA, roadwork continues on I-65 near Indianpolis and just north of Louisville, Ky. The Indianapolis bypass I-65, Ind. Rte. 67 to the I-94 junction, I-69 near Ft. Wayne and near Michigan City are other sites of possible lane restrictions.

In Michigan, road improvements continue near Detroit along —194 west of Jackson and west of Ann Arbor.

Traffic is being detoured around U.S. Rt. 14 between Middleton and Black Earth, Wis., and Wis. Rte. 67 is closed between Elkhorn and Wis. Rte. 50 near Lake Geneva due to repairs.

The Motor Club also says a major backup occurred last weekend on I-90-94 between U.S. Rte. 12 and Wis. Rte. 33 near Baraboo.

The Iowa Highway Patrol reports most of their highways are clear this weekend but warn rain could cause slick road conditions.

EPA orders suburb cars checked

Autos owned by suburbanites and driven to Chicago's downtown area will have to be checked for air-pollution emissions under an order by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

The federal order, issued Wednesday, applies both to the daily commuter and to the once-a-year Chicago visitor.

The order is a softening of an earlier requirement that all cars in the county be tested but county officials still aren't pleased.

County Board Pres. George W. Dunne said he was irritated that the federal government would set deadlines for the county while continually extending time limits for auto manufacturers.

Philip Mole, director of the County Dept. of Environmental Control, said Thursday enforcement of the order may be impossible.

THE COUNTY BOARD probably will consider the order at its next meeting in September and decide on challenging the order in federal court.

But with a 30-day deadline coming Sept. 13 for the county to start a public information program informing suburbanites of testing centers in Chicago, Mole's department has to begin acting on the order immediately.

Mole said the federal order was "really written from political ignorance."

The order wants the county to ticket suburban motorists driving in downtown Chicago without auto emission test stickers on their cars, but the county has no authority to issue tickets within Chicago, Mole said.

Moreover, the federal order requires the county to "cooperate with the City of Chicago" to use city testing facilities for suburban cars, even though the county has no agreement with the city and didn't pay for building the testing facilities or for the emission-testing equipment, Mole said.

THE COUNTY has proposed a variety of alternative plans such as fitting trucks and taxicabs with special pollution control devices. But those were rejected by the U.S. EPA for the plan requiring cars driven in the Loop to be inspected.

Although the county doesn't favor the limited testing of only those suburban cars driven to Chicago, that approach was advocated at public hearings by Philip Lindaahl, Des Plaines environmental control officer.

Mole said Thursday that the federal testing program might actually increase pollution levels in the city and county. He said the federal requirement for an idle emissions test may mean that a car set not to pollute while idling would emit more pollutants while being driven at normal speeds.

He called the idle test "meaningless" and said a much more thorough test is required before new cars can be sent to car dealers from auto manufacturers.

"WE MAY JUST be swapping one pollutant for another," he said because adjustments to eliminate carbon monoxide from an idling engine can increase nitrogen dioxide emissions.

The Chicago Lung Assn. endorsed the federal orders to the county and to the City of Chicago, which has to step up its voluntary testing program if it is to avoid a mandatory testing plan.

But the Chicago Motor Club argued against the plan, saying it would prefer having spot checks of cars in the Loop, with tickets issued to those that failed pollution tests.

Meyer clout hinted in trash business

Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland J. Meyer is part owner of a garbage collection firm which holds contracts with several Rolling Meadows businessmen. Meyer said his firm, XYZ Disposal Inc., services city businesses, but refused to name them or the number of contracts he holds. But one competitor said Rolling Meadows customers are canceling contracts "one right after the other" charging the implied power of the mayor's office in Rolling Meadows as the reason.

Meyer said his sales volume merely reflects poor service and higher rates from other scavengers. The City of Rolling Meadows has its own garbage collection system operated through the public works department which picks up trash at all single-family homes and some apartment complexes and businesses. Meyer said persons who say he is using his mayoral office for private gain are "damn liars — most of the people who we do business with don't know I'm involved." While he declined to name his customers, he cited examples of the lower rates he offers. One customer is getting service from XYZ for $50 a month less than he previously got, Meyer said. XYZ was incorporated in the state with $1,000 capital June 24 and obtained a Rolling Meadows license July 23. It also holds licenses in Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, Mount Prospect and Des Plaines, Meyer said. Meyer said he owns 40 per cent of the firm. XYZ is operated from an office at 3831 Industrial Ave., Rolling Meadows.

Neuckranz hits Meyer 'gain'

Rolling Meadows Ald. Raymond H. Neuckranz, 1st, Thursday charged Mayor Roland J. Meyer with using his office for personal financial gain. Neuckranz was the only alderman contacted by The Herald who critized Meyer's involvement in XYZ Disposal, Inc. "To me, it might not be out and out conflict of interest, but it's certainly not moral or ethical for him to use his office or the knowledge gained in that office to better himself financially. If he's interested in the solid waste business, he should quit and go into it full-time," Neuckranz said.

Barrington man hurt in crash

A Barrington man was seriously injured late Thursday in a three-car accident on Barrington Road just north of the Northwest Tollway in Hoffman Estates. Randall R. Kwiatt, 31, suffered extensive hand injuries in the accident and was taken to Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, by a Hoffman Estates Fire Dept. ambulance. Later, Kwiatt was transferred to Cook County Hospital, Chicago. No condition report on Kwiatt was immediately available late Thursay. Beth Nielsen, 22, of Bloomingdale, also was injured in the accident and was undergoing treatment at the Arlington Heights hospital.

Contributions asked

NORTRAN fee riles suburbs

Suburban officials do not want to come up with an estimated $522,200 to meet the expected deficits of the North Suburban Mass Transit District this year, NORTRAN executive director Joseph DiJohn says.

Representatives of many of the 21 communities included in NORTRAN's North and Northwest suburban areas objected Wednesday night to proposals that local money be used in addition to funding from the Regional Transportation Authority.

DiJohn told community leaders they will have to contribute the total if RTA will not make up all of NORTRAN's expected deficit. The RTA board has approved only partial grants because NORTRAN fares do not pay at least 65 per cent of its operating costs.

DiJohn's estimates for local donations included $44,300 for Des Plaines and $4,500 for Wheeling, based on NORTRAN route miles in the communities.

"WE'RE GOING to be quite disappointed after the way our community supported the RTA if this is the way we're going to be treated," Mayor Herbert H. Behrel of Des Plaines said Thursday.

Behrel said if the RTA doesn't provide adequate funding the city would meet DiJohn's estimate "if we have to." He said the money probably would come from the city's share of state motor fuel tax funds.

Behrel said he hopes the city does not have to provide local funding to NORTRAN.

"We think if the RTA is going to fund 100 per cent to the CTA, they had better do the same to the suburbs. That's it in a nutshell," he said.

THE RTA BOARD is conducting a public hearing Monday on a $50.5 million federal grant application for operating funds, and Behrel plans to attend. He said he won't object to the application because he doesn't want to interrupt the flow of funds, but he suggested the RTA reconsider plans for use of the money.

DiJohn said NORTRAN also may testify that the grant should be distributed equitably among the city and suburban communities.

NORTRAN also has requested a joint meeting with the RTA board next week to discuss the funding issue. Suburban spokesmen at Wednesday's session suggested the meeting after abandoning a proposal to file suit against the RTA.

DiJohn said letters have been sent requesting the RTA meeting, and board member D. Daniel Baldino of Evanston promised he will call a special meeting if the joint session is not arranged by RTA Chairman Milton Pikarsky.

74 new buses go on display this morning

The first of 74 new buses for the North Suburban Mass Transit District will be on display at 9 a.m. today in Des Plaines.

NORTRAN Executive Director Joseph DiJohn said most buses should arrive within two weeks, and all will be in service after Labor Day. The buses, which cost $62,000 each, will replace the United Motor Coach Co. fleet purchased by NORTRAN last January. The new buses were purchased with federal grant money obtained by NORTRAN.

The two-tone blue bus will be parked at the Chicago and North Western Ry. commuter station for a brief ceremony and appearance by Mayor Herbert H. Behrel of Des Plaines.

2nd tax payments due county Sept. 10

Mailing of 1,321,810 second-installment real estate tax bills has been completed, according to County Treasurer Edward Rosewell.

Payment of the real estate taxes is due Sept. 10. A one per cent per month penalty on bills paid after Sept. 10 will be charged, Rosewell said.

Early payment of taxes will speed distribution of funds to local government, he said. "By making prompt distribution, the taxing bodies can save interest on anticipation warrants," Rosewell said.

Property owners who did not receive tax bills can call Rosewell's office, 443-6253.

About 134,000 personal property tax bills also have been mailed and are due Sept. 10.

Truckers fear Hoffa will never be found alive

by United Press International

William Liby, 59, stood next to his rig parked near the New York City waterfront.

He thought a moment and lifted a bulging, tattooed arm to brush a hand over his white, crew-cut hair.

"Jimmy's gotta be dead," he decided.

"Whoever took him gotta know the kind of man he is. They know if he ever got loose, he's gonna come lookin'."

At the dusty loading docks and the sleazy midnight diners where truck drivers briefly pause, there runs that same gut-feeling — James R. Hoffa, the "little fellow" who once bare-knuckled his way to the top of the rough-neck Teamsters Union — will never be seen again.

After searching the nation for more than two weeks, the FBI and other law enforcement agencies say they have no clue as to Hoffa's whereabouts. All they know for sure is that he's gone.

"In my opinion, he's dead. Why it happened you can only surmise," Michael Gaffney, a truck dispatcher from San Francisco, said. "It was some type of power struggle."

John McCallister, of Atlanta, Ga., a truck driver for eight years, said he believes someone wanted to get rid of Hoffa because "they were getting scared. They wanted him out of the way. So they sunk him to the bottom of the river."

Robert Hanks, of Independence, Mo., agreed. "Somebody put him in the drink — the underground," he said at a central Illinois truck stop. "He was ready to step back in the saddle."

"He's either dead or in self exile waiting for the time to come out and blow the whistle — I'd almost swear to it," a 15-year Teamster member from Los Angeles, who asked not to be identified, said. "It's not a kidnap. He's too hot for ransom. Either he'll show up or they'll never find his body."

Although no one ventured to guess who the mysterious "they" responsible for Hoffa's disappearance might be, several drivers theorized it was related either to an intra-union power struggle or to some secret Mafia plot.

Many drivers UPI talked to said they believe Hoffa would come out on top in an election challenge against Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons. Several said they were disappointed with the way Fitzsimmons was running the union.

"Hoffa is the type of person everyone knows," one west coast driver said. "They know what he was. He worked for the men. With Fitz, you have to go through 50,000 people. He's for the big man — not for the worker."

Ron Clement, of Effingham, Ill., had a similar complaint.

"We had somebody to talk to when Jimmy was in there," Clement said. "I wrote Fitzsimmons a letter last September and I got an answer in February from some guy in Chicago."

Manford Bear, 59, of Lima, Ohio, said although Hoffa has his bad points, he'd vote for him in a minute and thinks most rank-and-file drivers would do the same.

Others said they felt powerless in the union's presidential politics.

Phony tips waste FBI time

DETROIT (UPI) — Crank calls and phony tips are becoming a "serious problem" in the James R. Hoffa investigation, an FBI spokesman said Thursday.

Authorities who have searched for the former Teamster Union president for more than two weeks still lacked a solid clue to Hoffa's whereabouts or fate.

Each day, FBI agents waste valuable time checking out false information, James Mull, information director of the FBI Detroit office, said. He warned that intentionally making false reports to the FBI is a federal crime punishable by up to five years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

"I don't want to discourage citizens from phoning us with legitimate information," Mull said. "But it is becoming a serious problem."

He said while "obvious nuts" are responsible for most crank calls, many tips later proven false come from "well-meaning citizens merely responding to wild speculation in the news media.

"Now, with the news stories subsiding a bit, perhaps the problem will become less significant," Mull said.

"We have to deal with these tips as if they're legitimate," Mull said. "It's our job. Although we may suspect it, we don't know for sure that they're phony until we check them out."

Kissinger warns Soviets

Keep out of Portugal issue

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger bluntly warned the Soviet Union Thursday against aiding the Portuguese Communist Party in its struggle to seize power in Lisbon.

He said any Russian involvement in Portugal's troubled affairs would violate newly agreed principles of European security.

Kissinger, reportedly on the verge of renewed step-by-step diplomacy to achieve an interim peace agreement between Israel and Egypt, ignored the Middle East in a speech prepared for a meeting of the South Commodity Producers Conference here.

"In Portugal, a focus of current concern, the Soviet Union should not assume that it has the option, either directly or indirectly, to influence events contrary to the right of the Portuguese people to determine their own future," he said.

"The involvement of external powers for this purpose in a country which is an old friend and ally of ours is inconsistent with any principle of European security," Kissinger bluntly declared.

President Ford and Soviet Communist party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev were among European and Canadian leaders who met at the recent Helsinki Security Conference and signed a "Final Act" whose principles include a pledge of non-interference in the domestic politics of another nation.

This was Kissinger's first public criticism of the Soviet Union for its reported support of the Portuguese Communist Party. Moscow is said to have been contributing $10 million a month to help Portuguese Communists seize control of the government.

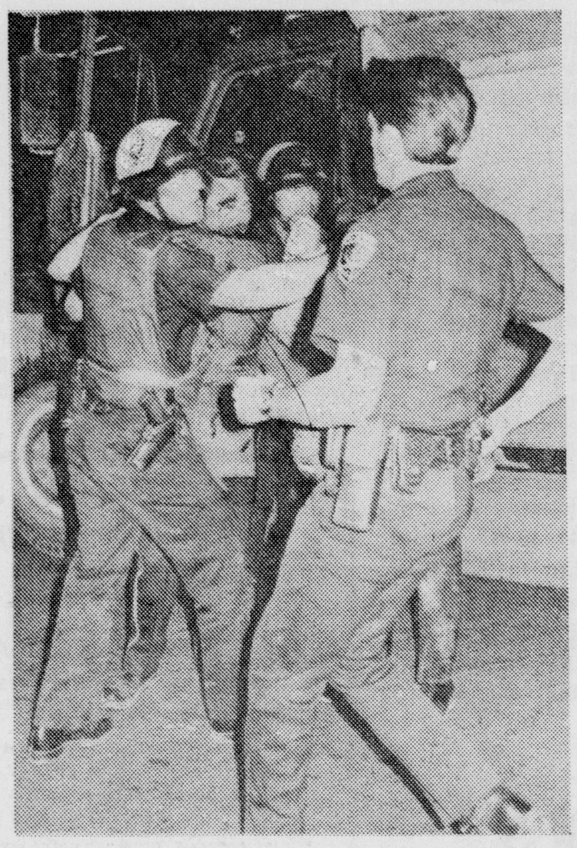
Kissinger said that while events in Portugal had their origin "in the dynamics of Portuguese history," 80 per cent of the Portuguese people had unmistakably declared their desire for a democratic system and democratic parties.

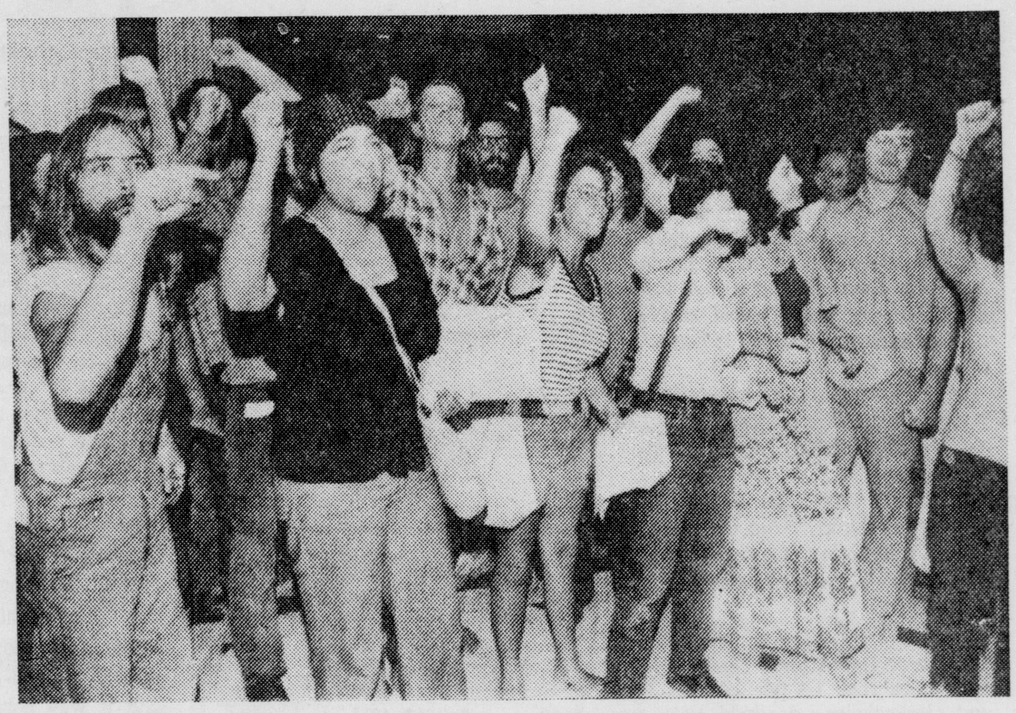
"The attempt by an anti-democratic and doctrinaire minority to thwart this desire is meeting inevitable and growing popular resistance," he added.

Kissinger said the United States sympathizes with moderate elements seeking to build Portugal by democratic means, but: "We will oppose and speak out against the efforts of a minority that appears to be subverting the revolution for its own purposes."

In Lisbon, meanwhile, thousands of Socialists massed in front of the presidential palace to demand the ouster of Portugal's leftist Prime Minister Vasco Goncalves. Some army units went on alert in three cities and the nation's leaders met in emergency session.

As the crowds cheered, men armed with loudspeakers said: "It is time for Goncalves to go," the crowds chanted back. "Vasco out now."





PROTESTERS, above, stormed House chamber in Boston shouting opposition to proposed welfare cuts. Three persons were injured. At left, Riverside, Calif. policemen assist wounded pal following confrontation with Mexican-American groups. An airplane and helicopter were hit by gunfire.

Judge orders new look at RFK murder

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The presiding judge of the county court system ordered the reopening of the Robert F. Kennedy case Thursday to determine whether someone other than Sirhan B. Sirhan may have also fired a gun in the 1968 assassination.

Superior Court Judge Robert A. Wenke approved a suit calling for Sirhan's pistol to be refired and the bullets compared to those removed from the senator's body and five other persons wounded in the shooting.

Wenke set Sept. 11 for a hearing to determine the circumstances under which a reexamination of the ballistics evidence in the 1969 trial would be conducted.

Sirhan, who was found guilty of first degree murder in Kennedy's death and who is now serving a life sentence at San Quentin, was not present in court but was represented by attorneys.

The suit calling for a new examination of the ballistics evidence was brought by Paul Schrade, a United Auto Workers executive who was standing next to Kennedy in the Ambassador Hotel pantry in June, 1968, and who was wounded.

Violence bubbles in nation

Mob fights lawmakers in Boston

From Herald news services

Violence erupted across the nation Thursday in Boston, Elyria, Ohio and Riverside, Calif.

In Boston, more than 100 demonstrators angered over proposed welfare budget cuts stormed the Massachusetts House chambers Thursday. Fistfights broke out among legislators, protestors and court officers.

Three persons were injured, none seriously, and two were arrested.

Hurling pamphlets and screaming, the protesters barged into the chamber. Court officers tried to halt the bedlam. They were joined by some legislators who grabbed the protesters by the hair and attempted to throw them out.

The scuffling lasted for more than 10 minutes halting House debate on a bill to establish a regional presidential primary.

The protestors identified themselves as members of the Western Massachusetts Coalition to Fight the Cutbacks and People for Economic Survival.

Punched in the mouth was Rep. William G. Robinson, who said he was attempting to stop fellow legislators and court officers from kicking and punching one of the protesters who already had been handcuffed and was being held on the floor.

IN THE RACIAL unrest in Boston, meanwhile, black leaders toured the Roxbury section, trying to cool tensions among black youths who on four consecutive nights threw rocks, bottles and boards at passing cars carrying whites.

At least 45 persons have been injured since the sporadic incidents began Monday. Police have made 32 arrests.

Police also reported that for the first time during the current tensions, whites were throwing rocks at vehicles in South Boston.

IN ELYRIA, Ohio, five buildings were damaged by firebombs and 40 persons were arrested late Wednesday and early Thursday during the second night of racial violence on the city's southwest side which apparently was triggered by the fatal shooting of a black burglary suspect by a white policeman.

The state troopers, city police and Lorain County sheriff's deputies patrolled the area Thursday, making random searches of motorists.

"Everything is relatively calm now," said Lt. Lou Radca. "Having the patrol here has helped."

IN RIVERSIDE, Calif., two police officers were wounded and a helicopter and a small airplane were hit by gunfire Thursday during a 14-hour incident in the Mexican-American Casa Blanca section. The incident ended without drama shortly after 2 p.m. when officers withdrew.

A force of more than 100 police officers and sheriff's deputies, including Special Weapons and Tactics Squads from neighboring San Diego and San Bernardino, earlier blocked off a square mile area containing several houses where an estimated 50 persons were reported holed up.

At one point, the officers were reported ready to storm one of the houses. Instead, they left the area.

Report Ford will veto oil price control extension

VAIL, Colo. (UPI) — President Ford has made final decisions to veto a six month extension of oil price controls and to remove the $2 a barrel tariff on imported oil, informed sources said Thursday.

Ford met for 50 minutes with Federal Energy Administrator Frank Zarb and Alan Greenspan, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, at his Vail vacation home.

Afterwards press secretary Ron Nessen told reporters that Ford "had made his final decision" on whether to veto a measure passed by Congress that would extend oil price controls six months beyond their present expiration date of Aug. 31.

Meantime in Washington, Solicitor General Robert H. Bork announced he will appeal to the Supreme Court a lower court ruling that Ford acted illegally in imposing the $2 tariff earlier this year.

Democratic congressional leaders have warned that permitting the price ceiling to lapse will mean an overnight doubling of the price of 60 per cent of the nation's domestic oil, bringing on sharply higher gasoline and fuel oil prices that will slow economic recovery and renew inflation.

Ford has consistently said he expected to veto the extension legislation because something must be done now to foster fuel conservation.

Viking spacecrafts being switched

Engineers began replacing a problem-prone Viking spacecraft Thursday with another vehicle that had been scheduled for a later launch, trying to cut a million-dollar delay of the mission to Mars by two days.

The launch of the first of two Viking spacecraft aboard a Titan-Centaur rocket was postponed Wednesday when a switch somehow was turned on draining batteries aboard the Mars lander. "We are optimistic that some time can be trimmed from the schedule so we could launch by Aug. 22, instead of Aug. 24," said James Martin, Viking program manager.

Bronfman family hears heir's voice

The family of kidnaped whisky heir Samuel Bronfman said Thursday in Yorktown Heights, N.Y., a tape recording of his voice proved he was being held by kidnapers. They pleaded for additional instructions and proof he was still alive and well. Jonathan Rhinehart, a family spokesman, told newsmen at the entrance to the palatial family estate that the 21-year-old youth's father, Edgar Bronfman, board chairman of the $1.4 billion Seagram's Ltd., had complied with all instructions but that "the abductors so far have failed to follow through."

Report new magnetic particle discovered

A team of physicists in Berkeley, Calif. has reported finding a magnetic particle with only one pole — a discovery which, if confirmed, could rank as a major scientific feat of the century and hold out possible energy producing and cancer curing applications. The subatomic particle, known as a magnetic monopole, promised to revolutionize all theory about the building blocks of nature.

Group also will support Missouri Synod

Dissident Lutherans back new synod

by WANDALYN RICE

The Evangelical Lutherans in Mission (ELIM) unanimously supported moves Thursday by some of its members to form a new synod, while agreeing to support those who plan to remain in the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

ELIM, a dissident group declared "schismatic," by the Missouri Synod, also approved a resolution saying it will continue its support for the Concordia Seminary-in-Exile (SEMINEX) in St. Louis.

The seminary was formed by faculty and students who protested charges by Missouri Synod officers that "false teaching" was being conducted there.

THE SYNOD, meeting last month in Anaheim, Calif., called on members of ELIM to stop support of the seminary.

The ELIM convention, meeting this week at the Holiday Inn O'Hare-Kennedy in Schiller Park, Thursday also called on congregations and individuals who want to leave the Missouri Synod to meet in 1976 to consider forming an alternative synod.

The convention specifically recognized the Lutheran Church in Mission, a new organization being formed by ministers around the country as the possible beginning of a new synod.

The convention also recognized that some individuals and congregations will continue to maintain membership in the Missouri synod.

REV. JERROLD SWANSON, pastor of Faith Lutheran Church in Mundelein, an officer in the Lutheran Church in Mission, said the organization would provide a formal church structure to those who leave the Missouri Synod.

"If something better comes up later, Lutheran Church in Mission should step aside," he said.

Rev. John Tietjen, president of SEMINEX, told the convention the resolution on the Lutheran Church in Mission, "allows us to stay together.

"It may well be the hand of judgment is resting on the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, and that whether we want to leave or not, it may be doomed," he said.

"I see God forcing us against our will to a new mission and ministry," he said.

Northwest suburban laymen and clergy attending the ELIM convention said they are pleased the organization is going to support both those who stay in the Missouri Synod and those who leave.

REV. CARL THRUN, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church in Rolling Meadows, said, "We need to keep the umbrella big enough to keep everyone in." Pastor Thrun said he expects his congregation to continue to back him.

"I think the majority of the people in the congregation will be supportive of me and my ministry, but I suspect there is going to be some kind of confrontation," he said.

Ross Scherer, a resident of Arlington Heights and member of Faith Lutheran Church, said, "ELIM seems to be a caterpillar trying to become a butterfly."

He said Faith Lutheran has put $5,000 for ELIM into its budget. He said, "I think many congregations may decide to belong to several different organizations as well as to (the Missouri) synod. The moderates are saying the congregations at the local level are supreme, and that is important."

Market slides despite good news

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market finished lower Thursday, in slow trading on the New York Stock Exchange despite fresh indications the economy was rebounding.

The dow Jones industrial average, a 9.78-point loser Wednesday, gave up another 3.52 points to 817.04. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index lost 0.37 to 85.60. The average price of an NYSE common share decreased 16 cents.

Of the 1,700 issues crossing the tape, 931 declined, 379 advanced and 422 remained unchanged.

VOLUME TOTALED only 12,460,000 shares, up slightly from the 12,000,000 traded Wednesday, the second slowest trading day of the year.

Just as the market opened, the Commerce Department reported business sales rose 1.5 per cent in June and inventories declined 0.2 per cent,the smallest slide in the past five months. Late in the session, the commerce Department reported retail sales rose 0.3 per cent last week, but auto sales fell 15 per cent.

Prices for New York' Municipal Assistance Corp. bonds fell sharply for a second day as the city prepared for a new $275 million issue Friday. With sales enthusiasm lagging for the MAC bonds, city officials adjusted the yields on the new ones upward to as much as 11 per cent in hopes of making them more attractive. The city is trying to peddle the bonds as a temporary solution for its financial crisis.

International Telephone & Telegraph lost 1-1/8 to 20 on 120,100 shares, finishing third on the active list. The giant conglomerate late Wednesday reported a 31 per cent decline in second quarter earnings and said it was not optimistic about the third quarter.

XEROX LED the Big Board actives, up ½ to 54-5/8, 132,100 shares. National Semiconductor followed, off 5/8 to 36¾ on 128,700 shares.

Among the more volatile issues, IBM gained 2¼ to 179¾. Superior Oil fell 5½ to 208, ARA Services 3-1/8 to 42-5/8, and Texas Instruments 2-5/8 to 90-1/8.

Prices closed lower in slow trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share lost two cents. Volume totaled 1,310,000 shares, compared with 1,390,000 traded Wednesday.

'Inventories grow, recession eases'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Commerce Dept. said Thursday retail and wholesale businesses have started putting goods into inventory again instead of selling goods from inventory — another indication that the recession is over.

Businesses increased their inventories in June after liquidating them the last four months, the department said, and it appeared that the buildup of depleted inventories would continue.

This was regarded as a good sign for the nation's 7.8 million unemployed.

Assistant Commerce Sec. James Pate said the report "augers well for increased employment."

"THE BULK OF the inventory liquidation is now behind us," Pate said. "Continued increases in business sales will have to be met out of new production."

Businesses sell inventories — backroom stocks — when there are more goods than can be sold easily. With inventories being sold off instead of maintained, production slows and workers are laid off.

The Commerce Dept. said that during the four months before June, inventories were cut to minimum levels. But the turnaround in June meant manufactured goods were in demand again, it said.

Retail inventories in June rose by $175 million and wholesale by $85 million, the department said. It said total business inventories of $264.2 billion were at the lowest rate since September, when they were $258.6 billion.

With inflation figured in, it said, inventories were extremely low even with June's increase.

BUSINESS INVENTORY is a key index in economic analysis. The Commerce Dept. said total inventories have fallen 2.9 per cent from January, when they were at an all-time high of $271 billion.

Despite the increases in retail and wholesale inventories, liquidation of inventories by manufacturers continued in June for the fifth straight month, Commerce said. Manufacturers had record backlogs of unsold goods, and their inventories dropped $900 million, it said.

Total sales in June were estimated at an adjusted $165 billion, compared to $162.7 billion in May, the report said. It was in manufacturing that the sharpest increases were given — sales up by $1.1 billion to $80.3 billion.

The administration has said the recession ended in the spring and Thursday's report of inventory buildup and increased sales seemed to support that analysis. It also indicated the gross national product was better in the second quarter of the fiscal year than had been estimated.

Messerschmidt, Ginnetti, Baer win Herald awards

Three members of The Herald editorial staff were honored Wednesday for their reporting achievements.

Staff writer Kurt Baer was given the paper's July Award of Editorial Excellence by Editor Daniel E. Baumann for his continuing coverage of the Chicago Bears stadium controversy in Arlington Heights.

A Special Award of Excellence was presented to staff members Al Messerschmidt and Toni Ginnetti for their series, "Justice and the Drunken Driver."

The six-part series on drunken driving represented months of research and writing. Data from 15,000 drunken driving-related arrests were placed on the Paddock Corporation's computers for analysis. Baumann said the special recongition was merited because the series was "unique and beyond the normal scope of writing and reporting effort."

Baer's reporting on the Bears stadium controversy, he said, was consistently "fair, imaginative and interesting. The caliber of this reporting is what we are striving to build in The Herald."

Baumann said several other staff members merited commendation for their work during July:

- Nancy Cowger for her "initiative and reporting skill in investigating the SAGR organization in Rolling Meadows before the recent crackdown on the firm by postal authorities.
- Karen Thompson for her series of articles on juvenile crime in the suburbs.
- Joe Swickard and Tom Grieger for their July 4 story on a patriotic organization and an accompanying four-color photo layout; and Swickard for news features on the Freedom Train's passage through suburbia and the fight of an Arlington Heights woman to keep chickens in her yard.
- Luisa Ginnetti for her "solid reporting" on the steps taken to dismiss former Wheeling Police Chief Peter Guttilla.
- Karen Blecha for continuing development of The Herald's Saturday Leisure magazine.

Gun shop rules urged by village legal committee

An ordinance placing new regulations on Arlington Heights gun dealers has been recommended for approval by the village board legal committee.

Key provisions of the new law are:

• A prohibition on the display of firearms and ammunition in store windows.

• A requirement that all firearms be locked securely, except when being shown to customers or being repaired.

• Installation of a mandatory burglar alarm system to the village police department.

The ordinance also would require gun dealers to obtain a business license. Each applicant for a gun dealer license would be subject to a background investigation by the police department. Similar background checks are made of applicants for liquor licenses.

The new restrictions on gun dealers were recommended by the village police department to enhance the security of stores where guns are sold.

The legal committee held several meetings to discuss the proposed ordinance and revised the law several times to meet objctions of gun dealers.

The ordinance was recommended for approval Monday night by a 2-to-0 vote of the committee. It must be approved by the full village board before it becomes law.

Boy saves friend, eludes fate again

Not quite two years after his first brush with death, Kenneth Stanley, 12, of Wheeling, again has cheated fate and saved a playmate in the process.

Kenneth, who spent several days in a coma and was near death after being struck by a car in 1972, is in the hospital again — after being hit by a car.

Kenneth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Stanley, 1441 S. Wolf Rd., was walking Monday along Milwaukee Avenue with a friend when he saw a car swerve off the road right at them.

"I saw a car coming and pushed him out of the way, but it was too late," he said from his bed at Holy Family Hospital, where he is in good condition with head injuries.

"I was called at work," said his father, 28. "My wife told me about it, and I thought, 'Oh no, here we go again.' "

THE REFERENCE was to the first time their son was hospitalized and near death for several days after being hit by a car while riding his bicycle on Wolf Road in November 1972.

He was on the critical list for some time, lapsing in and out of consciousness, but he improved steadily and was able to return home after several weeks.

Now nurses say there's a good chance Kenneth will be released today or Saturday, and his father is confident the youngster will be able to start the seventh grade at Jack London Junior High School in a few weeks.

Meanwhile, his father says, "I'll probably take him on a vacation, if I get the time."

Parks give contract for $174,000 garage

The Arlington Heights Park Board has awarded a $174,000 contract for the construction of a maintenance garage at Frontier Park, 1933 N. Kennicott Dr.

The park district has contracted with Solberg and Sullivan, Inc., Arlington Heights, who submitted the lowest of nine bids on the project.

Thomas Thornton, park district director, said the garage construction will begin immediately and is expected to be completed within 30 weeks.

The garage was included in a $537,000 general obligation bond issue approved by voters in a March referendum.

Clout hinted in Rolling Meadows

Mayor fights for trash business

by NANCY COWGER

Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland J. Meyer is part owner of a garbage collection firm which has contracts with several city businessmen for garbage service, the Herald has learned.

Meyer said his new firm, XYZ Disposal Inc., services city businesses, but he refused to name them or the number of contracts he holds. But one competitor said his Rolling Meadows customers are canceling contracts "one right after the other" charging the implied power of the mayor's office in Rolling Meadows as the reason.

Meyer said his sales volume merely reflects poor service and high rates from other scavengers.

THE CITY OF Rolling Meadows has its own garbage collection system operated through the public works department which picks up trash at all single-family homes and some apartment complexes and businesses.

Meyer said persons who say he is using his mayoral office for private gain are "damn liars — most of the people who we do business with don't know I'm involved." While he declined to name his customers, he cited examples of the lower rates he offers. One customer is getting service from XYZ for $50 a month less than he previously got, said Meyer.

Roland J. Meyer

XYZ was incorporated in the state with $1,000 capital June 24, and obtained a Rolling Meadows license July 23. It also holds licenses in Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, Mount Prospect and Des Plaines, Meyer said.

Meyer is listed as registered agent for XYZ, and he and Larry J. Romano, 4633 Kirchoff Rd., Rolling Meadows, are shown as principal owners. Meyer said he owns 40 per cent of the firm, and Romano owns the rest.

XYZ is operated from an office at 3831 Industrial Ave., Rolling Meadows, the same office rom which Meyer runs Midwest Environmental systems Inc.

MEYER'S CHIEF sales representative in Midwest and XYZ is James McFeggan, Former city public works superintendent. Meyer said McFeggan has been making all sales calls for XYZ. Potential clients would not know Meyer's affiliation with the firm, since McFeggan is the salesman and could not be influenced by his public office, Meyer said.

Meyer said he formed the scavenger corporation because of "the poor service people were getting" from the established firms Although XYZ is not listed with the telephone company, he receives calls each day from prospective new clients that McFeggan has not contacted, he said, pointing to the calls as evidence of the dissatisfaction of customers of other scavengers.

Meyer does not collect from private homes, but limits his service to commercial and industrial operations and apartment complexes, he said. The company has two trucks, and is "going for a third in the near future."

It uses conventional packer trucks, and not the German-made Mercedes Benz vehicles Meyer sells through Midwest. The German vehicles are not suited to commercial, industrial or apartment use, Meyer said, although the city uses them with clients in the same categories XYZ serves.

Meyer said his collection rate is about 25 cents per cubic yard lower than that of his nearest competitor, partly because he does not have he overhead of a large firm, and partly because his business is new, and trying to build clientele.

CUSTOMERS HAVE not been interested in the offers of competing scavengers to meet his prices because of poor service records and because they believe those competitors have charged them inflated rates too many years. Meyer said.

Meyer also said his entry into the commercial industrial and apartment scavenging business in Rolling Meadows will have no effect on city plans to expand the service it now provides.

The city collects from single-family homes under a free program subsidized by other revenue sources. It also collects at reduced rates from some apartment complexes and commercial or industrial firms, limited by the capacity of city vehicles and machinery. The city has vowed repeatedly to expand that service.

In July 1973, public works spokesmen vowed the city would collect from all apartments within a year. Expansion plans were announced in April 1974. Last January, aldermen were again saying all apartments would receive city service within a year, and all businesses could have it within two years. Many still do not, and they are forming Meyer's clientele.

Meyer predicted Thursday the city can serve all types of clients within the next two to three years, and said "I can't compete with the city — the city can undercut my rates."

Neuckranz hits Meyer 'personal gain'

by JILL BETTNER

Rolling Meadows Ald. Raymond H. Neuckranz, 1st, Thursday accused Mayor Roland J. Meyer of using his office for personal financial gain.

The accusation stems from the mayor's latest business venture, XYZ Disposal Inc., a scavenger service formed in June that already has picked up a number of local clients as well as contracts with businesses and apartments in several nearby communities.

Neuckranz was the only alderman contacted by The Herald, however, who expressed immediate outrage at Meyer's involvement in XYZ Disposal Inc.

"I knew he had a franchise for garbage trucks and was into some other things, but I hadn't heard about this one," Neuckranz said. "To me, it might not be out and out conflict of interest, but it's certainly not moral or ethical for him to use his office or the knowledge gained in that office to better himself financially. If he's interested in the solid waste business, he should quit and go into it full-time," Neuckranz said.

REACTIONS FROM other members of the city council were milder, although Ald. Thomas J. Waldron, 2nd. also objected Meyer accepting local contracts.

"I don't think there's anything wrong with it if he operates anywhere else, but I don't see how he can operate in Rolling Meadows," Waldron said. "I don't know if it's illegal, but I know I wouldn't do it if I were mayor. Being mayor, people might feel some pressure to use your company whether the pressure was really there or it wasn't."

"I've never known the mayor to use clout," said Ald. John T. Rock, 3rd. "Clout is a Chicago word. As long as the city doesn't contract with him, I don't think this business is a conflict of interest."

Ald. Merrill A. Wuerch, 1st, agreed with Rock.

"MY FEELINGS are the man has to work," he commented. "I don't see any conflict of interest and I don't think it causes problems for anybody."

Ald. James A. Huddleston, 4th, the only other city council member available for comment, said he would reserve judgment on Meyer's scavenger service until he has more facts on the situation.

None of the councilmen said they will question the mayor about the business on the council floor.

A FREE SHOT. Passing motorists can get an unobstructed view of a movie at the 53 Outdoor Drive-in, Palatine Township. The theater came under fire in a lawsuit filed to prevent it from showing sexually explicit films on the screen, visible to drivers.

Drive-in drops sex flicks for now; new screens next

Only general-interest movies will be shown on the screen of the 53 Outdoor Theater, Palatine Township, to quell the controversy about sexually explicit films being visible to passersby.

But the theater's owner has planned to install two new screens, less visible to the public, to show the X-rated movies. The changes were revealed after a Circuit Court judge delayed a hearing Thursday on a lawsuit filed by the State's Attorney's office to keep sexually explicit movies from being visible to outsiders.

John Dienner, an assistant state's attorney, said the theater's present screen would be used "for showing anything other than sexually explicit films," which would be shown on the two new screens.

ALFRED B. TETON, attorney for Kohlberg Theaters, owner of the drive-in, said the owner has proposed construction of the new movie screens in the southeast and southwest corners of the drive-in. The screens would back up to Rand and Hicks roads and would face only vacant land behind the theater.

Dienner said, "Whether or not these screens would be situated in a way that the films could not be seen by people outside the theater would depend on what angle they are built on."

Six Northwest suburban residents were present as witnesses for the state's attorney's office. They said they frequently travel on Rand and Hicks roads and object to the visibility of sex films from the road.

Donavan Kerr, Long Grove, said his family often takes Hicks Road into Palatine, where they shop and visit friends. "The kids can see these pictures from the road as we pass the theater and ask about going back to see the nude ladies. It's just not right," Kerr said.

"I'm going to organize other people, who are against this and have them come down once the hearing is scheduled. We'll get a whole room full of people in here because I think there are a lot of people who feel the same way about this and haven't said anything," he said.

AN INVESTIGATION into the theater was prompted by complaints the State's Attorney's office received from motorists who frequently drive past the theater and from residents who live nearby.

Investigators watched the movie, "Hardy Girls," last month from different points along Rand Road to check the complaints and determined the movie screen is visible from the highway and contributed to traffic problems there, Dienner said.

Because the attorneys for the owner were not prepared to present their side, the hearing was postponed indefinitely.

$1 million budget cut proposed for Dist. 59

Budget cuts totaling more than $1 million have been proposed for Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 by a member of the finance committee.

Joseph Stecker said he is "challenging" the school board to cut the budget to help solve the district's financial problems this year. The district is facing a $1.7 million deficit in the education and building funds for the 1975-76 school year.

In a letter to board member member Avis Wold, who also serves on the finance committee, Stecker stated "... the Board of Education has not directly contributed to any reductions in expenditures. I strongly feel that through board action, expenditures can be reduced by $1 million, and most importantly, done so without affecting the educational experience for the children in the district."

He presented a list of 24 possible budget cuts totaling $1,012,095 to the finance committee.

SUPT. ROGER BARDWELL said some of the recommendations could not be implemented. Stecker recommended the district only implement half of the new science program this year, cutting that expense from $90,000 to $45,000, but Bardwell said the board already has purchased the supplies.

Stecker also suggested closing an elementary school, which would cut expenses by $60,000, but Bardwell said a school could not be closed at this late date.

Stecker's recommendation for teachers to pay the $110,000 increase in health insurance fees would have to be negotiated with the teachers, Bardwell said. Stecker also recommended increasing class size by two students and reducing the teaching staff 5 per cent — saving the district $280,000. "It doesn't work that simply," Bardwell said.

Stecker recommended cutting custodial staff and services by $118,190, but Bardwell said current services are necessary and could not be dropped from the budget.

THE RECOMMENDATION TO drop Dist. 59's share of Sunrise Summer Camp expenses and rejecting the Kirk Center and Dwyer School maintenance increases from the Northwest Suburban Special Education Organization program could be considered by the board, Bardwell said, because that funding has not been approved yet. Those two expenses total $34,000.

Other recommendations Bardwell said should not be considered include restricting publication of the district newsletter to cut that expense from $9,444 to $5,444; reducing principals' pay by $46,405, cutting that part of the budget to $510,463; and cutting special education expenses by $124,000.

Recommendations Bardwell said the administration and the board could investigate include:

- Reducing administration building personnel by 10 per cent, cutting the budget by $35,000.
- Cutting administration travel expenses by $10,000 from $13,905 to $3,905.
- Reducing psychiatrist expenses by 10 per cent from $110,484 to $100,484, saving $10,000.
- Reducing postage costs and supplies by 10 per cent from $54,369 to $48,869, saving $5,500.
- Restricting phone service and enforcing heating regulations, cutting the budget by $13,000.
- Dropping or charging a fee for the eye and hearing testing program to cut the budget by $20,000.
- Cutting the number of reading consultants in half to save $40,000.

board Monday night on his call for a public referendum on the stadium project after a final financing proposal is made.

Ryan announced his position in favor of a binding referendum at a Tuesday press conference. But his proposal still must be approved by the village board before a stadium referendum is guaranteed.

Only one trustee, Richard Durava, has publicly opposed the referendum proposal.

Ryan predicted that a revenue bond financing proposal would be made by September, and that a referendum could be held in October, or early November.

Congressional wrapup

Mikva backs, Crane opposes oil controls

From Roll Call Report

Following is a summary of key votes by the Illinois congressional delegation from July 31-Aug. 1, immediately preceding Congress' recess.

Included are the votes of Illinois' two senators, Republican Charles H. Percy and Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III, and Northwest suburban congressmen Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, and Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th.

House

OIL PRICING: Passed 303 to 117, a Senate bill extending control of domestic oil prices until March 1. The law, passed in 1973 after the Arab oil embargo, was to expire Aug. 31 and established the current $5.25 per barrel oil ceiling.

President Ford is expected to veto the bill for the same reason he has blocked other energy legislation — because the bill would continue price controls which the administration opposes.

YES: Democrats Mikva, Metcalfe, Murphy, Russo, Fary, Collins, Rostenkowski, Yates, Annunzio, Hall, Shipley, Price and Simon. Republicans O'Brien, Railsback and Madigan.

NO: Republicans Crane, Derwinski, Hyde, McClory, Erlenborn, Anderson, Michel, and Findley.

INFLATION: Passed 235 to 188, a bill to extend and strengthen the Council on Wage and Price Stability, which is scheduled to expire today. The bill would extend the council through Sept. 30, 1977, at a yearly operating cost of $1.7 million and was sent to the White House.

YES: Democrats Mikva, Murphy, Metcalfe, Russo, Fary, Collins, Rostenkowski, Yates, Annunzio, Hall, Price and Simon; Republicans Hyde, Anderson, O'Brien, Railsback, Findley and Madigan.

NO: Republicans Crane, Derwinski, McClory, Erlenborn and Michel; Democrat Shipley.

Senate

TURKEY: Passed 47 to 46, an authorization bill for Radio Free Europe to which the Senate attached a provision permitting the President to partially lift the six-month-old ban on U.S. arms sales to Turkey. The House, which reaffirmed the arms ban a few days earlier, failed to act on the legislation before the recess.

Congress imposed the ban after Turkey's July 1974 invasion of Cyprus violated a U.S. law stipulating that American-supplied arms be used only for self-defense.

Supporters said more important than the letter of the law are the goals of easing Greek-Turkish tensions, mediating a Cyprus settlement and preserving NATO.

Opponents protested Turkish "black-mail" — the taking control of U.S. bases in Turkey and said lifting the embargo would set a bad precedent affecting the U.S.'s relationship with other countries that receive U.S. arms.

NO: Percy, Stevenson.

MILITARY SPENDING: Rejected 48 to 42, a conference report authorizing $31.1 billion to the Dept. of Defense to buy weapons through Sept. 30, 1976. A new House-Senate conference must be held after Congress reconvenes in September.

At issue is the amount of spending, an estimated $300 million above the congressional budget ceiling agreed upon by the House and Senate.

NOT VOTING: Percy, Stevenson.

ENERGY: Tabled 66 for and 30 against, an amendment to set back a "fast breeder" nuclear reactor demonstration project under way at Oak Ridge, Tenn. The amendment attempted to lower federal funding for the project from about $550 million to $450 million.

The experimental ractor "breeds" fuel from plutonium wastes.

The motion to table was attached to a bill authorizing funds through Sept. 30, 1976 for the Energy Research and Development.

Supporters of tabling said the fast breeder process is the nation's best hopes for achieving energy independence.

Opponents of tabling wanted to postpone commitment to the breeder because new studies show that the reactor's environmental and monetary costs may be too high.

YES: Percy, Stevenson.

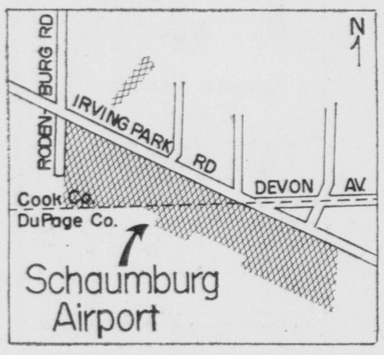
We support airport study

The Village of Schaumburg is giving careful consideration to the possibility of buying Schaumburg Airport and operating it as a municipal facility.

Action taken by the board of trustees Tuesday, in approving the second part of a $56,000 feasibility study, will help determine the desirability and impact of such an operation. This phase of the study will cover the projected environmental impact of the airport.

Schaumburg Airport, located on Irving Park Road, is currently privately owned. To finance purchase and improvement of the airport, a $2.4 million revenue bond issue has been suggested. More immediately there are questions to be answered about the future use of the land as an airport — private or municipal.



Proponents of the purchase argue that the private operation is shaky and that the dwindling number of small airports in Chicagoland makes it necessary to preserve existing fields. It's argued that the airport can someday become an integral part of the Schaumburg transportation system.

Opponents, however, point to present and future noise and pollution from the operation.

All the pros and cons of the matter deserve consideration, and the village-sponsored study is an essential first step in that review.

Let's finish the study, then rush madly into it!

Do we need an ice cream scandal?

Stop! We don't want to hear another word about it! We've muffled our ears and shut our eyes. We've turned our head to the wall and begun stamping our feet.

There's just so much bad news a body can stand and we've reached the limits of toleration. We can stand a lot of news about wars, pestilence and politics, but we can't face an assault on the credibility of the Good Humor man.

On the East Coast, a grand jury has cited the Good Humor Company with selling ice cream products so filthy that bacteria in such favorites as strawberry short cake and Chocolate Fudge Whammy are too numerous to count. Ugh!

Thank goodness such things can't happen here.

Chicago health inspectors have sworn the local Good Humor factory (you mean the stuff is NOT made at the North Pole?) is clean as a whistle. You can still sink your teeth into a Wildberry Whammy without a second thought about its purity.

But even so, something has gone out of the summer thanks to this scandal in New York. If it has no effect on local Good Humor bars, we wish the whole thing had been hushed after October when we make the switch from ice cream to hot chocolate.

Bugs in a Good Humor bar? Next thing you know they'll discover there's something wrong with our bubblegum.

He is a man of merit

Today Paddock Publications loses one of the finest journalists ever to have graced its newsroom.

Managing Editor James F. Vesely leaves this weekend for Palo Alto, Calif., to follow a long-held dream of professional and educational betterment. He will enter a Professional Journalism Fellow program funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities and operated jointly by the University of Michigan and Stanford University.

To undertake such a demanding, and elite program in his mid-30s, is typical of Jim Vesely, whose life has been spent in professional and personal improvement.

We knew when we first hired Jim Vesely as a staff writer seven years ago that he had special talent. His record of growth since then has sustained that judgment.

Jim has given without measure of his energies and talents. His everyday involvement in The Herald will be missed. But his contributions of the past seven years will not be missed because they are permanent.

He is a man of merit.

Decision up to convention?

Ford avoids '76 VP commitment

by ARNOLD SAWISLAK

WASHINGTON — Given the shrunken and nervous state of the Republican party, President Ford is handling the problem of who will be his running mate next year with some deftness.

There is no mystery about his preference for the GOP vice presidential nomination. He is on record as favoring Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller. but he also has avoided welding his own candidacy to Rockefeller in a way that presents the GOP with a "both or neither" situation.

To his own statement endorsing Rockefeller, Ford attached the proviso that the decision would be up to the Republican National Convention. In the usual circumstances, a newly nominated presidential candidate's statement that he "will ask the delegates" to endorse his choice of a running mate means that he expects them to do so with no nonsense about competition on the convention floor.

But this time Ford did not want that construction to be given to his statement. He wanted Republicans to know that the decision really was open.

The President's intentions were made public indirectly — through private comments from White House aides and public statements of his new campaign manager, Howard Callaway. They made it clear that while Ford wants Rockefeller on the ticket, the former New York governor must pass muster with the rank and file.

The reasons for handling the Rockefeller situation in what might seem to be a devious method are clear. First, Ford himself might have to fight for the presidential nomination and he would not be the first candidate who had to bargain with the vice presidential spot to tie up the big prize for himself.

Secondly, Ford has the problem of trying to keep a minority political party from further splintering into liberal and conservative factions. Right now, Ford is getting heat from the right wing of his party, and he wants to avoid alienating its more militant adherents unless it becomes absolutely necessary.

And if it does become necessary he certainly doesn't want to do it when there is a lot of time for the conservative red hots to organize against him, either within the GOP or in a third party effort.

Finally, Ford is operating in a different political atmosphere from the one that previous presidents have enjoyed. He is not the elected choice of the people or leader of his party and he cannot afford to indulge in the kind of arbitrary political decision-making that a Lyndon Johnson or Richard Nixon could get away with.

A small example of the changed atmosphere could be seen in Ford's selection of Mary Louise Smith as Republican National Committee chairman last year. Even though Mrs. Smith was well-known to the national committee members and highly respected for her past political accomplishments, there was some open grumbling heard from members about the choice. A number of members were for her, but didn't like having the decision forced down their throats.

This new climate is not just the product of Ford's unique position. There is strong sentiment among activists to open up the decision-making processes within both of the political parties, and it would be just plain dumb for Gerald Ford to try to attempt a power play now the vice presidential selection for 1976.

Chief appreciates letter

EDITOR'S NOTE: On July 31, The Herald published a letter from Lucille A. Cole of Arlington Heights. Ms. Cole praised a police officer who handled a traffic accident in Arlington Heights.

Re: Letter from Lucille A. Cole.

On behalf of the members of the Arlington Heights Police Department, please accept my appreciation for printing the letter in your Fence Post column.

The police officer Ms. Cole referred to in her letter is Officer Eugene W. Korn. I believe the behavior displayed by Officer Korn exemplifies the behavior of the vast majority of members of this department.

We deeply appreciate Ms. Cole taking the time to make her feelings known, especially by utilizing your newspaper.

A copy of the article and this response will be placed in Officer Korn's personnel file.

He applauds police

I want to publicly thank the Elk Grove policemen and the fire department paramedics for their immediate response to the call for help the morning of Aug. 5, when our daughter suffered a fatal accident at home.

I cannot recall the names of all the officers involved at the scene of the tragedy and later during the investigatory questioning at the police station, but I wish to commend them all for their courteous and sympathetic handling of an emotionally difficult situation.

Those who refer to policemen as pigs are glorifying the lowly beast by attributing to it the finest of human qualities, concern for your fellow man, or in Christian terms, love of thy neighbor.

'Time to end crises'

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON — If as it appears, the recession has bottomed out, bottoms up! A toast to the economic jitters that helped bring us through.

Next time we may not be so lucky.

There is currently underway in the U.S. Congress a move to terminate four national emergencies that have gripped the republic for periods as long as 43 years.

These emergencies would remain in existence for two years after the proposed repeal legislation was passed. Which is less risky than outright repeal. Even so, enactment of the measure would amount to a stroke of rashness in these troubled times.

While it may appear to the untrained eye that the emergencies are safely over, I, for one, am unwilling to take that gamble.

Consider, for example, the national emergency proclaimed on March 23, 1970, because of a Post Office strike. The strike has ended, true, but would anyone seriously argue that mail service is not still at a crisis point?

Termination of the 1950 Korean war emergency is another impetuous provision in the bll. Granted that Korean truce has lasted almost a quarter of a century. That, however, is just long enough to lull us into a false sense of security.

I'll feel better if we remain on emergency footing for at least another decade.

As for the national emergency to deal with 1971 balance of payment problems, it may very well have run its course by the time it officially expires in 1977. All I can say is, why take chances?

If nothing else, continuation of the emergency serves to keep us on the alert. And with the international monetary situation as volatile as it is, this is no time to relax our vigilance.

None of the above, however, represents my major concern. My main worry arises from the prospective termination of the national emergency that President Roosevelt declared in March of 1933 to deal with the Great Depression.

Citizens too young to remember those bleak days might conclude that after 30 years of nearly unbroken prosperity the exigencies that galvanized FDR have abated somewhat.

In that regard it is well to keep in mind that recessions have occurred with ominous frequency. Thus far, fortunately, all have been relatively short-lived, including the one that hit last winter.

Dick West

I'm convinced these early recoveries came about precisely because the emergency created by the 1933 depression was still formally intact.

It made us keep our guard up even in good times, so that the slightest slippage of the economy was viewed with wild alarm.

Without the 43-year-old emergency to keep us on our toes, will the next recession find us lacking those catlike reflexes that have prevented the country from drifting into another depression?

I fear such might be the case. This definitely is no time to deactivate the panic button.

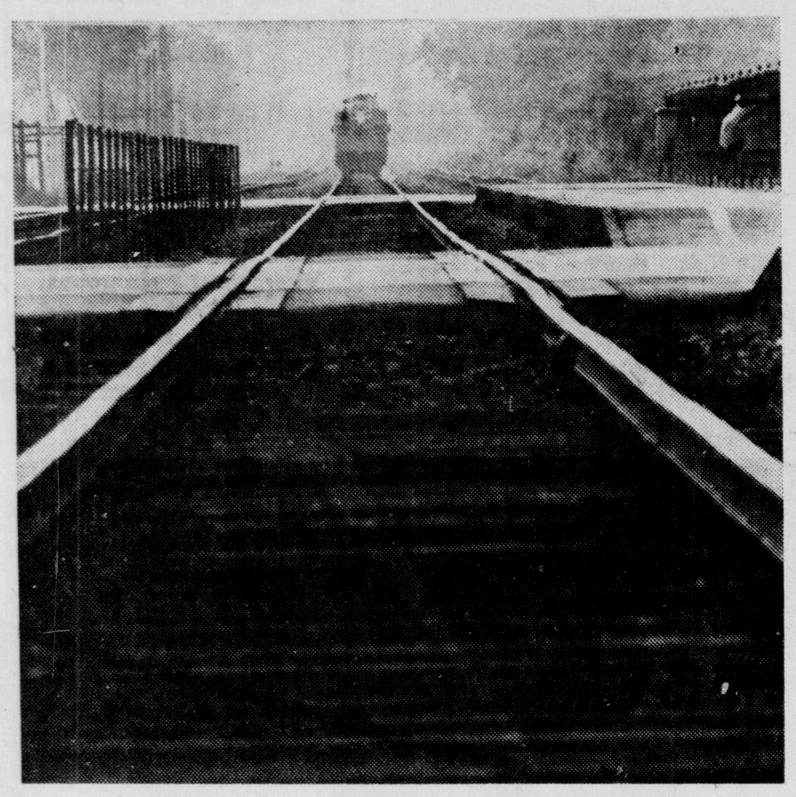
Suburbs losing RTA power struggle to Pikarsky



by STEVE FORSYTH

A news analysis

Power, pure and simple.

Milton Pikarsky, chairman of the Regional Transportation Authority, wants it — and is succeeding as he bats away challenges by various board members.

His most recent victory was approval of an ordinance that gives him sole authority to hire staff members and consultants at salaries up to $30,000. The ordinance also abolished a personnel committee consisting of other board members and himself, and eliminated a requirement that Pikarsky notify board members of staff vacancies.

Board members have been bewildered by the army of consultants Pikarsky has hired to present plans and programs at public board meetings, but thus far they have had to settle for the esplanation that consultants won't be necessary when staffing is complete.

MILTON PIKARSKY

PIKARSKY doesn't debate his feelings during board meetings. As the last member to vote, Pikarsky simply breaks tie votes in his favor. He listens to arguments, usually from suburban board members, without rebuttal. He has lost only one major point.

That issue was a request for a 72-hour deadline for board agendas, and Pikarsky tried to head it off by promising that the staff would submit material earlier than the 24-hour limit that was on the books. Pikarsky said the 72-hour advance notice might hinder him and the board in handling important last-minute issues.

Pikarsky passes off most requests for rules or procedures by promising to comply voluntarily with the nature of the requests. He prefers an informal system that will not pin him down.

After repeated requests to have official court reporters at all public board meetings, Pikarsky recently abandoned his voluntary policy and asked for a vote on the issue. It was approved.

As chief executive officer of the authority, Pikarsky is answerable to the board, but as chairman, he is responsible for leadership and guidance of board policy. It is a confusing situation, and Pikarsky doesn't want to be pinned down by detailed requirements from board members.

It might also be argued that Pikarsky must appear strong before his own board if he expects to carry any weight in union or railroad purchase-of-service negotiations.

SUBURBAN BOARD member Richard Newland, Waukegan, has often abandoned the suburban contingent to support Pikarsky's wishes. It was Newland who introduced the measures increasing Pikarsky's hiring powers to the $30,000 level, at a time when a dissident Chicago member added to the suburban votes was enough to defeat Pikarsky's request.

Newland explained that Pikarsky was hired to run the RTA, but he needs some authority to make decisions without the cumbersome process of board approval. Newland said no private businss ties its executive leaders to a board for major decisions, and the same procedure should apply to Pikarsky.

Suburban board members' voices appear to be growing weaker and weaker as they make requests for more information about RTA workings and get no answers.

Pikarsky recently announced he would support an interim policy requiring suburban bus operations to pay 65 per cent of their own costs before they would qualify for full deficit grants from the RTA.

The board has never voted on the policy,but it was referred to repeatedly by Pikarsky when the North Suburban Mass Transit District (NORTRAN) applied for an emergency grant, and the formula was used for NORTRAN. There was scarcely a murmur of objection from the suburban board members.

SERIOUS QUESTIONS have been raised about the legality of delegating authority to Pikarsky that would allow him to enter into contracts and agreements without majority approval from the board. But Pikarsky presently has the power.

If he is challenged on a legal basis, and if he wins, Pikarsky will be well on his way to establishing a one-man authority that will be susceptible to the qualities or faults of whoever fills the chairman's post.

Suburban challenges often have been vague and have not been focused on specific targets, forcing Pikarsky to dismiss them as trivial. If serious questions can be pinpointed and answers demanded of Pikarsky, RTA. Board members will have a more effective role in determining the power of the chairman in the years to come.

2nd Marine found innocent in beating of recruit

A five-man military court panel Thursday found Marine Cpl. Nebojas Popovich innocent of charges stemming from the beating last May of Navy recruit Steven Stawnychy.

Popovich, 22, of Grayslake, was the second of two Marine guards cleared in the beating of Stawnychy in the Great Lakes Naval Training Center brig. A third Marine guard, Cpl. William Mason, 22, Sommerville, Mass., was found guilty of maltreatment in the case.

Stawnychy, 18, of White Bear Lake, Minn., was beaten while in the brig at Great Lakes last May. He was hospitalized for two weeks after the beating and when released from the hospital, committed suicide by kneeling on commuter railroad tracks near the base.

Popovich and Marine Sgt. Michael Williams, 23, of Moorhead, Minn. were tried by military panels which included enlisted Marines and both were found innocent. Mason was tried by a panel consisting entirely of officers.

The panel which tried Popovich heard six prosecution and three defense witnesses in proceedings Wednesday and Thursday. The men deliberated only 35 minutes before returning their verdict.

6 escapees still missing

Six of 20 youths who escaped from the St. Charles School for Boys this week remain missing.

A spokesman for the correctional facility said the boys escaped in three separate incidents. He said all are from Chicago and range in age from 15 to 17. Boys are committed to St Charles by juvenile courts when they are charged with serious crimes, but cannot be tried as adults.

Drought may cut crops

Crop yields may be reduced as much as 20 per cent in parts of west central and northern Illinois due to dry weather conditions, the University of Illinois said Thursday.

It was the first serious report of drought in Illinois this year. A U of I agronomist said he expects corn to be hit harder than soybeans by the dry conditions.

Traffic deaths increase

The National Safety Council Thursday said the number of traffic deaths in the nation increased slightly the first six months this year compared with the same period last year.

But the council said the number of fatalities is 20 per cent below the number reported for the first half of 1973.

Youth who took girl held

The Waushera County, Wis. sheriff Thursday held a 17-year-old River Grove, Ill., youth who abducted a 12-year-old girl at gunpoint and then tried to elude police in a chase.

Waushera County Sheriff Virgil Batterman said the youth pulled alongside two girls and a boy walking along a road Wednesday night, pointed a shotgun at them and ordered them to get in his car. He released the boy and older girl first and later released the 12-year-old unharmed.

Train-truck crash hurts 1

A Burlington Northern freight train smashed into a truck that was apparently stalled in Henderson, Ill. Thursday, critically injuring the truck driver and derailing the train.

The truck driver, Ben Simpson, 59, Watega, Ill. was admitted to St. Mary's Hospital in Galesburg in critical condition.

Exercise helps reduce faintness

Four of my friends and I have the same problem. We all have had second babies about eight months ago. We get light headed at times, which makes us nervous and that seems to make the light headedness worse. We all get little pains in the middle of our chests (which also seems very scarey). We have all been checked by our doctors. One doctor tells my friend it's muscular. Another says it's nerves and has put her on Valium and my doctor says it is exhaustion. I had an extremely difficult birth so he attributes it to that.

Although we feel there is nothing seriously wrong with us, we still worry about that weird feeling in our heads.

Is this common in young women? We are between the ages of 25 and 28. We are all very happy with our home lives but do wish we could feel like our old selves.

Could you shed some light on this subject for us? Sometimes I think we could be sympathizing with each other and therefore experience the same things. We really are in a quandary, but the more young women who've just had babies that we speak to the more we hear the same symptoms.

You are describing a group of nonspecific symptoms that usually means enurocirculatory asthenia. What is that? A condition manifested by light headedness or faintness, sometimes breathlessness, sharp pains in the chest and sometimes irregular heartbeats, but there is no evidence of disease of the heart or lungs.

The set of symptoms occurs most often after an illness. One of the early descriptions of the symptoms was in soldiers of the Civil War, usually after periods of diarrhea or other illnesses. It also occurs in people who have low levels of physical fitness. During World War I it was noted in young men reporting to the army who had been office workers and were unaccustomed to much exercise. The rate of physical training was too faast for them, and they developed these symptoms.

The condition is related to anxiety and is often seen in anxious persons. The symptoms may be precipitated by more exercise than the person is capable of, hence it is correct to say exhaustion.

Why do you girls have this problem? Well, the long siege of pregnancy you had may have decreased your usual level of exercise tolerance. With children you have more daily responsibilities that could require more activity and cause more anxiety just coping with the household.

There are some things you can do about it. First eliminate those things in your life that increase anxiety. That means the coffee you are probably all drinking — the tea and colas too. The caffeine in these drinks has the opposite effect of tranquilizers and when used in excess leads to anxiousness that can contribute to your symptoms. You can use decaffeinated products.

Next start a regular fitness program of calisthenics to tighten up your muscles, including situps. And, you might form a group to do some morning or evening jogging. Start gradually and build up your tolerance. As your level of fitness improves you will have fewer of these symptoms.

Finally, stop smoking if you smoke. Cigarettes contribute to these types of symptoms. Now, I'll challenge you. Try this program for two months, then let me know how it works.

Airline baggage needs nametags starting Sept. 21

All airline baggage must be identified with nametags after Sept. 21, according to the Air Transport Assn.

An agreement approved by the Civil Aeronautics Board allows airlines to refuse baggage that is not properly marked. Airlines will provide free baggage identifiction tags at ticket offices and airports.

George A. Buchanan, ATA vice president-traffic, said the mandatory name tag policy will allow faster tracing of lost luggage and will cut down the number of times passengers accidentally pick up look-alike baggage that isn't theirs.

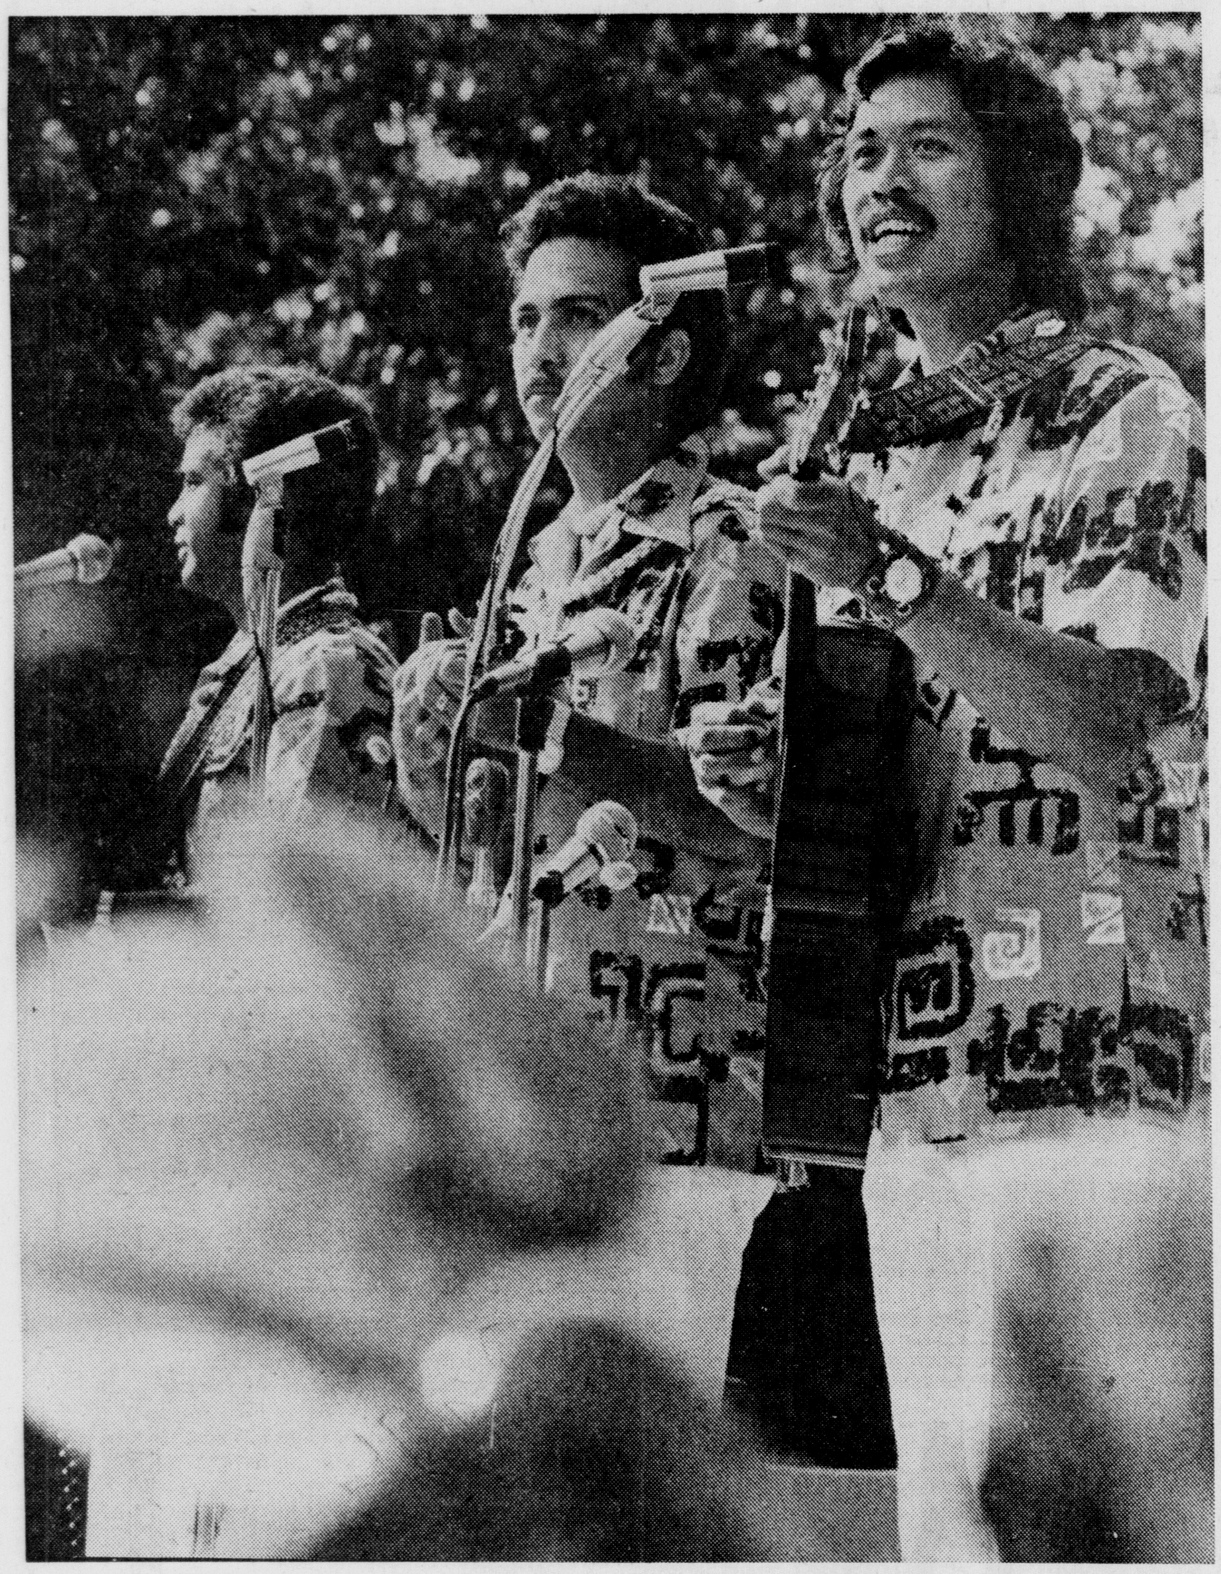
AN IMU PIT CREW from the Hawaiian Islands unearths 400 pounds of pork for more than 400 guests at the Long Grove luau. At right, Fred Boyd, director of inflight service for United Airlines, is greeted with a shell lei and a kiss as he enters the grounds. Another luau is planned for next year.



A little bit of Hawaii in suburbia

by RICH HONACK

Having a luau in the suburbs and making the guests think they are in the islands of Hawaii is almost an impossible task.

But the Long Grove Church social committee did it with all the sights, sounds and smells of the real thing. In fact, the only thing missing was the Pacific ocean crashing along the side of Long Grove Road.

The committee, however, had some help — native Hawaiians who either live in the area or flew in from the islands, at no charge to the church. Their only objective was to bring the flavor of Hawaii to Long Grove.

The idea of having a luau as a fund-raising event for the church came from Charlie Kaanoi, a native Hawaiian who now resides in Buffalo Grove. Kaanoi is a member of the church and works for United Airlines.

He began working on the luau last April and began contacting friends in both the Chicago area and Honolulu. His goal was 1,000 guests, a good time, and something that could be turned into an annual event. Tickets were $25 a couple.

THE RESPONSE to his call for help was met with a willingness by everyone involved to bring the islands 5,000 miles west to a tiny village in Illinois.

Employes of United and their families, Aloha and Hawaiian Airlines, Hawaiian Holidays, and just friends of Kaanoi came from the islands for the one night stand last Saturday. A group of United Airlines stewards, for instance, landed at O'Hare at 6:30 a.m. Saturday, performed at the luau from 4 to 10 p.m. and then left again for the islands.

Guests were greeted with shell leis as they entered the luau grounds and a complimentary Mai Tai cocktail. As guests found tables, they were entertained with traditional Hawaiian songs by the stewards of United and another group of Aloha Airlines stewards.

The actual feast of the luau began with the "Imu" presentation.

An Imu is an underground oven made of lava rock, which for the Long Grove church occasion, also was flown in from Honolulu.

More than 400 pounds of pork were cooked in the special Imu and served to 400 guests along with several other Hawaiian delicacies.

FOLLOWING THE meal the church garden was transformed into a Hawaiian village where a program entitled "This Is Hawaii" was presented. With lighting by church member John McCarthy and choreography by Ed Kalahiki of United, the island atmosphere took over, exciting the audience. It was the next best thing to being there.

For the guests who had already been to Hawaii, it brought back great times and memories. For those who never visited the islands, it offered an opportunity to experience the warmth and friendship of the Hawaiian people.

And those who missed it altogether might have a second chance. Kaanoi said he and the social committee are already at work planning the second annual Long Grove Church luau for next summer. And, hopefully, it will be every bit as successful. Last week's luau netted $4,000 for the church.

CHARLES KAANOI, father of Buffalo Grove resident Charlie Kaanoi, also flew to Long Grove from Honolulu to serve as the Hawaiian king. The elder Kaanoi is the official greeter for Kodak's Hula Show in Oahu.

THE SINGING STEWARDS of United Airlines came from Honolulu especially for the Long Grove Church luau. They are, from left, Ed Nahoopii, Carl Judd and Aaron Akaka. They sang only Hawaiian chants and songs. Immediately following the show they flew back to the islands.

Bob Dylan's 'Basement Tapes' make fine album

(Bob Dylan is featured today both in Playback and Book Stall. Staff writer Tom Von Malder reviews his most recent album, "The Basement Tapes," and the new book by Stephen Pickering entitled "Bob Dylan Approximately." See below.)

Playback
by Tom Von Malder

One of the best, most entertaining albums of the year actually was recorded in 1967 with a home tape recorder and three mikes in West Saugerties, N. Y.

The album is the famous "The Basement Tapes" by Bob Dylan and The Band. The sound is surprisingly good and much better than the many bootlegs which exist, in part due to a good remixing job. The 24 songs, which include all but about five from the sessions, were compiled by Robbie Robertson of The Band for this Columbia release.

Nine of the songs in the album, including one by Dylan and eight done by The Band, have never been released before in any form. The most famous of the excluded songs are "I Shall Be Released" and "Get Yer Rocks Off."

THE ALBUM HAS a nice loose feel and the interplay between Dylan and The Band is unlike anything else they have done on record together. As Dylan told Jann Wenner of Rolling Stone in 1969, "They were just fun to do. That's all. They were a kick to do. You know . . . that's really the way to do a recording — in a peaceful, relaxed setting — in somebody's basement. With the windows open. . .and a dog lying on the floor."

In the same interview Dylan explained that the tapes were made as demos for the songs so they could be played for other singers who might then record them. Indeed, many of the songs have been recorded by others and released over the years.

The time of the recordings was about a year after Dylan's near-fatal motorcycle accident and before the recording of Dylan's even simpler "John Wesley Harding" and The Band's initial "Music From Big Pink" albums. In fact, the eight Band songs were originally intended for the "Big Pink" album.

OF THE SONGS themselves, it isn't so much what they say as the overall good vibes of the music that makes them so enjoyable. Evenly divided between confessional types and more bawdy, carnival-type songs, they often contain enormous amounts of emotion. "Tears of Rage" is an excellent example. The previous unknown "Goin' to Acapulco" is another highlight, along with "Apple Suckling Tree."

The cover and the inside liner notes by Greil Marcus also are among the year's best.

One of the summer's brightest, if at times silliest, television shows is Jim Stafford's, 9 p.m. Wednesdays on Channel 7. Stafford's pleasant personality also comes through on his second record album, "Not Just Another Pretty Foot" (MGM records).

STAFFORD'S FORTE is gentle, easy-going songs filled with humor and whimsy. Those that work best are his collaborations with Dave Bellamy, particularly "You'll Never Take Me Alive" and "Your Bulldog Drinks Champagne."

The album's main fault is it is a bit too unassuming at times and his only real attempt to enliven things, the blues parody "I Ain't Working," is a failure. Among the songs are his recent single, Shel Silverstein's "I Got Stoned and I Missed It."

BOB DYLAN

Author follows comeback concert tour of 'the poet'

"BOB DYLAN APPROXIMATELY" BY STEPHEN PICKERING
David McKay Co., $14.95

The book stall

The big musical event of 1974 was Bob Dylan's return to concert touring. During January and February that year Dylan, with The Band, played 43 concerts in 21 cities.

It was the first tour for the "poet of his generation" since his European tour in 1966, and the poet had gone through many changes, not the least being his near-fatal motorcycle accident shortly after that visit to Europe.

Last year's tour was a great success artistically, commercially and any other way one looks at it. It was both a celebration and a testament to genius.

What Stephen Pickering attempts to do in his book is to interpret the tour in terms of Dylan as a Jewish poet in search of God.

PICKERING'S METHOD, and I assume it is the same as he has used in his five previous books on what he calls Dylan's relationship to Jewish mysticism and philosophy, is to use midrash, or "searching out," through description and commentary for the Jewish sources of Dylan's imagery and inspiration.

The method is a very subjective one, mirroring Pickering's own deep belief in the Jewish faith. The greater part of the book is given to subjective notes on each of the 43 concerts. Sometimes jumbled, these notes — intermixed with quotes from Jewish philosophers — tell us much more about Pickering than about Dylan, and this is a grave defect in the book.

Pickering seems to fall into the same trap as many record reviewers — that of trying to read meaning into a songwriter's work, whether the gleaned meanings are accurate or at the level intended by the artist.

IT IS FINE TO say that much of Dylan's lyrics and most of the meaning from his songs come from his Jewish heritage. Perhaps they do. But you don't prove it by comparing song quotes with Biblical quotes and having them only partially match. Much better would have been to come right out and interview Dylan, to ask him if that was what he intended in his songs.

Pickering never asks Dylan the question. He always relies on quotes from others, comparisons of lyrics with the Bible and background information on Dylan to try to prove his thesis. An example: "Today: Bob Dylan prays and shares his prayers . . . he has studied with Ray Shlomo Friefeld of Far Rockaway, New York (a most learned man) . . . he does not eat pork . . . as did Dylan, his children have gone to a religious Jewish summer camp . . . he has contributed

Contrary to public opinion, The Giraffe does make a sound.
An unforgettable sound.
The Giraffe sounds like pieces of rarity put together.
It's an alloy of the hoofbeats of the Jentink Duiker, and the flutter of the jungle's Luna Moth.
Many people think The Giraffe is a silent creature.

Available to schools, churchs, civic groups, homeowners' associations, business establishments and private parties, the traveling specials for adults include "Cabaret '75," song and dance revue featuring Broadway musical hits, folk tunes, popular ballads and patriotic choral pieces; "Spoon River Anthology," dramatic and musical Bicentennial tribute based on Edgar Lee Masters' book; "It's Hard To Be Hip Over Thirty," a comedic look at the American housewife in poetry and song; and excerpts from "Last of the Red Hot Lovers," Broadway comedy by Neil Simon about the attempted extra-marital affairs of a middle-aged man.

FOR CHILDREN, the traveling specials include a program of magic acts; "The Reluctant Dragon" and other puppet shows; excerpts from the Broadway musical "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown;" and for Christmas "A Visit from Santa Claus."

The Players provide all sets, props, costumes, lights, sound and programs for the traveling specials and charge only a minimal fee to cover travel expenses and royalties. Bookings must be contracted at least one month in advance of the desired presentation date and can be arranged by calling 885-2360 weekdays after 5 p.m.

Northwest suburban professional artists and craftsmen are donating an exhibitor's fee and a percentage of their sales to help The Lambs, Inc., at an arts and crafts fair Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 23-24, at The Lambs Farm, Route 176 and Tri-State Expressway, Libertyville.

The site is a 50-acre farm for mentally retarded youths, where the public is welcome to view the exhibits in a natural gallery setting.

Arlington Heights residents exhibiting are Raymond E. Anderson, a group of handmade clocks; Agnes McNamara, lapidary and jewelry; and Harold Holt, oil paintings.

Susan Bayer of Buffalo Grove will exhibit plaques. Palatine residents John and Nancy Lewis will display leather ware and Sheryl Sanders Leak, also of Palatine, paintings.

Paintings by Ida Mae Askren of Park Ridge are on display in the lobby of Lutheran General Hospital all this month. The exhibit, open to the public, is part of the continuing "Art Originale" program of the hospital's Service League.

Formerly a commercial artist, Mrs. Askren now paints portraits, farms, landscapes and Florida sand dunes in watercolor, oil and acrylics.

She has been a member of the Service League for 10 years, working as a volunteer in the EKG department.

Bob Crane makes 'Luck' a summertime sizzler

by GENIE CAMPBELL
(A review)

Bob Crane acts as though the role of Paul Burnett in Drury Lane East's current production of "Beginner's Luck" is second nature to him. It almost is.

During the past five years, whenever Crane has been available to do live theater, he has opted for "Beginner's Luck." He premiered in the show at Drury Lane south in 1970. And since that time, many of the same cast have stuck with him. Not even a rehearsal was necessary to open this present engagement.

The comedy itself — about a man who after eight years of marriage plans a one-night fling with a voluptuous girl from the office, gets caught in the ct and spends the rest of the play trying to win back his wife — has never before truly impressed me.

YET CRANE PUTS his "Hogan's Heroes" fame and clownish, animated flair to good use. In addition, as director, he has tightened the play considerably and added a few new lines to keep it fresh. Finally, the supporting cast is a valuable asset, turning this particular rendition of "Beginner's Luck" into a summertime sizzler. It won't keep you in stitches, but it will instill a continual smile.

Crane, as one might suspect, is relaxed and perfectly at ease. He highlights his performance with a series of cutups and hilarious facial expressions that run a gamut of personalities from little boy mischief maker to outright cad.

And Crane's antics, coupled with the polished, sophisticated manner of Bernard Fox, who greatly utilizes his own British accent to his advantage, constitute some of the best scenes of the play. Crane's ex-wife is Fox's new girlfriend and the two fight it out to the bitter end.

CRANE AND FOX are used to working together, not only in "Beginner's Luck," but also through television. Fox, theatergoers will quickly recognize, plays Col. Crittendon on "Hogan's Heroes."

Unfortunately Fox is shortly leaving the cast since he had made a prior commitment. Richard Stadelmann, who originated the role at Drury Lane South, will take over.

Also featured as Crane's ex is Pam Hayes, who does a fine job in acting. One small criticism. She could use both a new wardrobe and hairstyle.

There is no way around it. Ronnie Richards is extremely type-cast for the role of the office flirt. Her appearance is all that counts.

Though the play originally included three more cast members, Crane cut them out. The result is a much smoother, faster-paced show.

"BEGINNER'S LUCK" continues at Drury Lane East Theatre in McCormick Place through Sept. 28.

to Israel . . . with his wife, in 1971 he visited the Mount Zion Yeshiva in Israel . . . at one time . . . he contemplated renting an apartment in Jerusalem . . . and, after several visits to Israel, he applied for membership on a kibbutz."

THE KIBBUTZ idea failed to materialize through mishandled paperwork and, apparently, a decline or redirection in interest by Dylan.

Pickering accompanied Dylan throughout the tour with two photographers, and the 106 pictures of the tour performances are the best part of the book. Most are excellent, although there is some repetition of poses. The two photographers were George Gruel and Peter Vogl.

The book also is laced with dozens of unexplained mystical drawings that appear as space-wasting gibberish to the uninitiated. The book ends with a long section on Dylan's "Planet Waves" and "Before the Flood" albums.

If one is not a Jewish mystic and merely nopes to get an idea what the Dylan tour was like, he would be much better off spending a lot less money for the "Before the Flood" album (Asylum records), which was recorded live during the tour.

You can always count on Mathis

Night out
by Genie Campbell

Beginning tonight, FU-LAMA GARDENS in Schaumburg is featuring Polynesian dances in the dining room 6 to 9 p.m., after which performances continue in the Blue Dolphin lounge.

Also, a special drink and appetizer offer is now available during Island Hours, 4 to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday. Patrons may enjoy two Pol-Polynesian drinks for the price of one and a special combination of island appetizers for just 65 cents.

Fu-Lama Gardens is located in Woodfield Commons, 1233 E. Golf Rd. at Meacham.

There are some entertainers who just go on and on, with never a loss in popularity or sign of age.

One such celebrity is JOHNNY MATHIS. Currently facing packed audiences at MILL RUN THEATRE, he croons to couples in their late twenties who credit their whole romantic being to "Mathis magic," the young who like him even if they can't remember when "Chances Are" was first recorded, and the oldsters who might not own any of his 18 gold albums but enjoy hearing his smooth, soft style anyway.

They're all there, young and old alike, as they have been for years. Just so, Mathis is his same old self, every bit as humble and earnest, dishing out the same generous amount of that soothing, charming sound that has carried him along so far.

He even looks better, having traded the slick, tight look of the sixties for a more carefree, yet sophisticated image that matches the current times.

And seeing Mathis live, backed up by a full house orchestra, is quite impressive, even more exciting to hear.

"I have a few surprises and some I know you'll want to hear. I'm here to entertain, so sit back, relax and I'll sing for you."

Mathis, no doubt, would be booed off stage if he didn't somehow incorporate his old standbys — "Wonderful Wonderful," "It's Not For Me to Say," "When Sunny Gets Blue" to name a few. He gets them all in with a Mathis hit medley.

But his "surprises" are more enjoyable — "Woman, Woman," "Laughter in the Rain," and a very pretty number, "Summer Me." They are a little livelier than Mathis' past songs and indicate he's still on the right track.

After waiting a half hour for the show to begin (Mill Run is never on time), it is rewarding to see Mathis appear first. Usually one must sit through a long opening act. He sings for a while, retires to let comic-impressionist FRED TRAVALENA do his thing and then comes back for the entire second act.

Travalena is a show in himself and I suspect he'll soon be billed as the main feature. He is every bit as talented and funny as Rich Little. He does many of the usual impersonations but adds an unsuspecting twist. He might begin with Bill Cosby playing Frankenstein, only to turn around and wind up as Jim Nabors.

He presents an hilarious account of Henry Kissenger's honeymoon night, imitates Frank Sinatra both young and mature, and lets loose at the end with a series of unbelievable sound effects to highlight the telling of his original soap opera. Travalena works hard and it counts. And to be able to impersonate other singers so well indicates he has a great voice of his own.

It's a double show, TRAVALENA and MATHIS. It runs through Sunday.

Future Blue Max bookings include: ENZO STUARTI (Sept. 5-27); FRANKIE AVALON (Sept. 29-Oct. 11); and BARBI BENTON (Oct. 13-25).

Art thefts rampart worldwide

by MICHAEL THOMPSON-NOEL

Thieves study the commodity markets and go for what is in short supply, a British Insurance Association crime expert observed recently.

He was speaking specifically of increased hijacking of meat and sugar shipments in Britain at a time of high prices. But his thesis applies with spectacular force to the art market.

The post-war explosion in art prices in part produced by scarcity has been accompanied by a worldwide burgeoning of art thefts. In the past three years there has been an epidemic of cultural white collar crime worldwide.

IT INVOLVES not only the theft of paintings, tapestries, ceramics, carpets, sculpture and antiques, but also the wholesale theft and destruction of art works everywhere. These include the looting of major archeological sites in Central America, the devastation of the Khmer ruins of Cambodia and the plundering of Hindu temples in Bangladesh.

Art theft — like art work itself — now is an offshoot of big business, with its own underground task force of skilled thieves, middlemen and unscrupulous dealers. Their efforts, in turn, are aided by the work of an assorted international cast of amateurs and eccentrics, magpies and con men, kleptomaniacs and psychopaths.

THE EASE WITH which art treasures can be rifled was underlined by the May 15 theft in Milan of 38 paintings from the Modern Art Gallery valued at $5.5 million. The haul included 19 paintings among them works by Van Gogh, Gaugin, Renoir and Cezanne which had been stolen only three months previously and then recovered.

Even more serious was the Feb. 5 theft from the Ducal Palace in Urbino of three Renaissance masterpieces, "The Mute" by Raphael and two works by Piero della Francesca.

Karl Meyer, the American authority on art thefts, says, "every day, an important work of art is stolen somewhere, and though some of the thefts are committed by cranks or the simple-minded, most are not."

IN SOME INSTANCES the thieves extort ransom sometimes from insurance companies, sometimes from governments. More often the missing works are sold. Paintings by lesser known masters can be sold to unsuspecting dealers or collectors: in some cases the works are doctored by restorers so that the risk of discovery is minimal.

In the U.S. the only police-affiliated art investigation unit is New York's one-man art identification squad, run by former narcotics agent and undercover man Robert Volpe.

He estimates the total value of recorded international art thefts at around $1 billion annually, roughly equal to some estimates of the yearly volume of legitimate art sales.

In Volpe's view, however, the $1 billion figure for recorded art theft is itself only the tip of the iceberg. Of the $1.2 million worth of stolen goods he recovered in 1973, for example, $200,000 worth was never reported stolen — or never even missed.

Joffrey to mix ballet with rock at Ravinia

In one short week at Ravinia the City Center Joffrey Ballet will present a dance program that includes the romantic, comic, expressionistic and modern sides of the dance world.

The varied program, which runs from Tuesday through Sunday, includes pieces set to rock music, Strauss waltzes and Stravinsky scores. And the company has even managed to slip in the world premiere of its production of Anthony Tudor's "Offenbach in the Underworld."

Diversity has always been the Joffrey's strength, and Chicagoans seem to love company that mixes ballet with the Beach Boys as well as more traditional composers.

EACH PROGRAM over the six-day stay mixes three or four short ballets which vary in flavor. This visit features "Deuce Coupe II" which choreographer Twyla Tharp revised for the company from her earlier ballet to the Beach Boys music.

"The Big City," an expressionistic ballet from the 1930s is strictly a period piece of the inhumanity of city life. The company also offers "Jeu de Cartes," John Cranko's comic presentation of a card game set to Stravinsky music.

The lighter, more romantic pieces include "Kettentanz," a tribute to the Viennese waltz, "Confetti" by Gerald Arpino and "Pas des Deesses" by Robert Joffrey.

Programs are offered at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday, with a 2 p.m. matinee Saturday.

"PAS DES DEESSES," danced here by Francesca Corkle and Burton Taylor, is one of the more romantic and traditional pieces offered by the Joffrey Ballet during its week's visit at Ravinia.

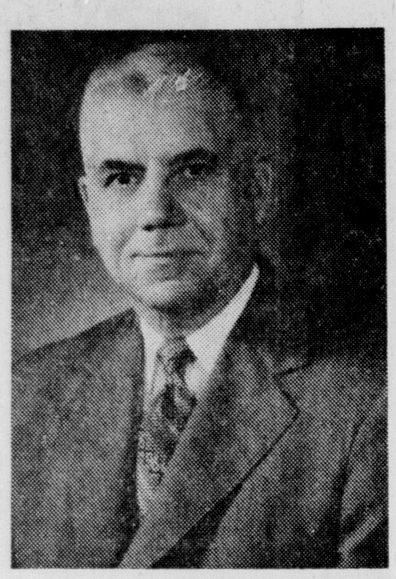
Price increases expected

Gas supply for heating adequate

Natural gas consumers in northern Illinois can expect an adequate energy supply in the winter heating season, although gas prices will continue to rise. That's the prediction of C. J. Gauthier, president and chief executive officer of Northern Illinois Gas Co. (NI-Gas).

Gauthier said at a Thursday press briefing in Skokie that the only question mark in the company forecast for natural gas supppy during the coming winter is the potential impact of legislative allocation proposals. Taking supply from the "haves" and giving it to the "have nots" in the Northeast U.S. could change the local supply outlook, he said.

Gauthier, chairman of the board of the American Gas Assn. (AGA), said the industry can offer only "guesstimates" of price trends. Federal energy planners estimate consumers will pay an added 5 to 6 per cent a year for natural gas if the industry succeeds in its campaign for deregulation of "new" natural gas prices.



C. J. GAUTHIER

GAUTHER SAID the increase may be close to 7 or 8 per cent a year, although estimates range to 12 per cent and higher gains. The AGA official said there is great potential for discovery of added natural gas reserves if the deregulation move is successful. The gas price is regulated by the Federal Power Commission.

Gauthier said he hopes the small individual gas consumer will remain the top priority for service during shortage periods. Consumers have cut usage during the past three years, he said. Faced with average increases in natural gas bills averaging 30 per cent, NI-Gas residential customers cut average annual supply usage from 2,000 therms of gas to 1,860 therms.

"Sheer greed" may prompt oil-producing nations to recover much of the gas that is burned off in the production process, Gauthier said. He declined any prediction of price and supply actions that may be taken by Mid-East oil producing nations.

The proposed Arctic Gas pipeline that may transport natural gas from Alaska through Canada to the Midwest and eastern states could start service as early as late 1979 or early 1980, Gauthier said.

OTHER SOURCES of supply the company supports include supplemental natural gas production, offshore drilling and biological production of methane. Hydrogen, solar energy and biological methods may offer energy promise by the year 2000, he said.

NI-Gas serves the northern third of Illinois outside the City of Chicago and the North Shore. The company provides service to nearly 1.28 million customers.

First National net sets 6-month mark

The First National Bank of Des Plaines achieved record net earnings for the first six months of 1975, president Arthur R. Weiss has announced.

Net earnings totaled $831,004 compared to $648,215 earnings in the same period of 1974. Total resources as of June 30 totaled $146,923,520, a 14 per cent increase from assets of $128,285,461 a year earlier. Deposits increased 7 per cent, from $115,246,400 to $123,768,771.

Earnings per share for the first half of the year, after a 10 per cent stock dividend declared in February, amounted to $1.50. The figure compares to $1.17 earnings a year earlier.

Fed checks put in private accounts

The U.S. Dept. of the Treasury will deposit monthly Social Security checks and other recurring federal payments directly into personal accounts in financial institutions, starting in September.

An individual can request an authorization form for the service at area banks and other financial institutions. The form 1199 will be forwarded to the proper agency. For additional information on the procedure, contact a Social Security office in Arlington Heights or Des Plaines.

Several changes proposed in county zoning law

Density bonus urged for land gifts

A measure allowing builders to increase the density of developments as a bonus for donating land for school or park sites is one innovation in the latest draft of a new county zoning ordinance.

The proposed law, which will be considered by the County Board this fall after a series of public hearings, includes some other changes from the present county zoning ordinance.

Among the changes are regulations:

- Requiring nonconforming buildings or zoning uses to be eliminated within certain time periods.
- Extending county planned unit development procedures to relatively small developments.
- Requiring flood insurance and additional flood control measures on low land.
- Creating a special zoning class just for publicly owned lands and special zoning for privately owned land left as open space.
- Allowing developers to double the density of development on one piece of land if they leave another site they own in the same area open for public use.

Billed as a model ordinance that could be adopted by municipalities, the proposed county law is similar to last year's original draft.

An introductory "Rationale for Decision Making" which accompanies the ordinance and deals with the fate of unincorporated areas has been softened after hearings this summer. The rationale now calls for annexations of unincorporated land only when municipalities want the land. Earlier the county plan had advocated eliminating all unincorporated areas through annexations by the year 2000.

Although some comments on the proposed ordinance are expected at a public hearing in Chicago Aug. 28, most reaction probably will be delayed until the county relreases zoning maps that will accompany the ordinance.

The maps for local townships will be disclosed beginning Sept. 4 with a preview session for Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships. The public hearing on those maps also will be Sept. 10.

SIMILAR SESSIONS for Maine, Wheeling and Palatine townships will be held later with public hearings on maps for those areas Oct. 8 for Maine Township and Oct. 10 for the other two.

Release of the maps has been awaited by local officials who say they can't evaluate the county ordinance until they see the new zoning designations for various properties.

For each township there will be four maps accompanying the ordinance. The maps will include unincorporated land.

There will be maps of existing land uses, existing zoning, proposed generalized land uses in the township, and proposed county zoning for individual lots.

Prices steady for school shoppers

by JUDY JOBBITT

Back-to-school shoppers will find that prices of fall clothing and school supplies have held steady since last year, retailers and manufacturers say.

"Prices are in line with last year," said David Silger, merchandise manager of Sears Roebuck and Co. at Woodfield Shopping Center, Schaumburg. "A person can maintain the same cost for purchases this year as last year."

He said parents can economize by watching for back-to-school specials.

"Sales we're offering are better this year than last year," he said. "We've gone to the pennies in computing prices this year. People are looking more for bargains."

Robert Spiegler, of Spiegler's Department Store, Des Plaines, also says prices are staying the same.

"This year there's really nothing different in the prices. It might even be a little less," he said. Last year he said some clothing costs jumped as much as 20 per cent because of the shortage of petroleum products for synthetic materials and increased production costs.

CARL BAUER, a manufacturer's representative for boys' clothing, said his fall prices were comparable to last year.

"There's been more of a price increase in low-priced merchandise than the middle-and higher-priced lines," he said. Increased costs are reflected in some of the new fashion lines like the prewashed denim look which has additional manufacturing costs, he said.

Montgomery Ward and Co. is showing higher prices this year. Barbara Keller, manager of women's fashions, said Ward's clothing is averaging $2 to $3 increases this year.

She said youngsters' shoes that cost $10 to $12 are running $14.99 to $19. Denim jeans are up about $5, running $11 to $14 compared to $6 to $8 last year.

Girls' dresses that were $13 to $22 last year cost $17 to $35 and shirts and blouses that ran $3.99 to $5 cost $8 to $10, she said.

Silger said Sears still is selling shirts and blouses for children at $4 to $5 and denim jeans from $5.49 to $7.99. Junior high and high school girls can expect to pay between $12 and $39 for a dress at Sears. He said shoes have gone up about 10 per cent costing between $8.99 and $12.99.

SCHOOL SUPPLIES also cost about the same this year, Silger said. He said the only item that has changed is the cost of paper, which parents can expect to find on sale during August.

Most paper manufacturers are selling paper in packages of 200 sheets instead of 300 this year, he said, and have increased the price to last year's 300-sheet package.

Most school districts also are keeping fees at the same level as last year. The average book fee for kindergarten students is $5 and for elementary and junior high students $8 to $12. High school students pay between $12 and $20 for book fees except in High School Dist. 207 where students purchase their books. Schaumburg Township Dist. 54, Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 and Long Grove-Buffalo Grove Dist. 96 do not charge a book fee.

Other incidentals parents can pay for are hot lunches, between 45 cents and 65 cents, insurance from $2.75 to $20 a year and bus fees, from $31 to $77 per year.

Supplies show no increase in cost

School supplies cost about the same as last year.

A sampling of local stores that sell supplies showed a variety of prices for items like pencils, paper, crayons and rulers. The sampling taken Aug. 5 does not reflect back-to-school sales.

Golf, dinner to benefit Alexian

A golf tournament and dinner Aug. 22 will benefit the new emergency department at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk grove Village.

Tee times for the Alexian Associates Open will be from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Itasca Country Club. Proceeds from three previous golf outings have contributed more than $5,000 to the medical center.

The benefit, known as the Neil Cooney Open, was started in 1972 by a group of friends of the Elk Grove resident. Cooney, president of the Plum Grove Bank in Rolling Meadows, served five years on the lay advisory board of the hospital before being elected as a hospital trustee in 1971.

Presentation of the Cooney Cup to the winner of the tournament will highlight the dinner along with entertainment by comedian Dink Freeman.

Reservations for golf, $15 per person, and dinner, $17.50 per person, can be made by calling the hospital's public relations office 437-5500, ext. 451.

Rule of 11 favors East over South

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

South applies the rule of 11 and sees that East will hold four cards higher than the three of spades. If one of those is the queen, South wants to get East to play it. So he plays dummy's jack of hearts.

If East has also been applying the rule of 11 he knows that South has exactly two spades and that both are higher than the three spot. If East is really on his toes he will come to the conclusion that one of those two spades is the 10 spot. Otherwise, South would have been inclined to play dummy's nine rather than the jack.

After this decision, East sees that if South's other spade is the king there is a way to hold South to just one spade trick. Then East plays his eight of spades, not the queen.

After this play the failure of both minor suit finesses is going to leave South just one trick short of the nine he needs to score game and rubber.

Pack rats are talented traders

Andy sends a complete 20-volume set of the Merit Students Encyclopedia to Sean Kelly, 15, of Spokane, Wash., for his question:

WHAT IS A PACK RAT?

The pack rat, alias the wood rat, is actually a vole — a ratty relative with a furry tail, large ears and a happy face. Without a doubt he is one of the most charming of the rodents, and he may be the outstanding genius of the whole clan. One might say that his greatest talent is in commerce, for of all things the pack rat is a born trader.

In pioneer days, a packman traveled the Western frontier with goods for sale, stashed in a pack on his back. Often he traded or bartered a precious cooking pot for a slab of bacon for himself. And sometimes in his lonely journeys he encountered a pack rat — who also traded something for something else.

Chances are, the packman never saw the pack rat, for the furry little trader arrived like a thief in the night. His little heart yearned for a bright shiny treasure, such as a bit of glass or metal. A few nails would do just fine, or even a scrap of bright cloth. But a thief he was not, for he came prepared with something to exchange for what he took away.

A pack rat may leave a few bright pebbles, a bleached bone or some other object which he considers to be a fair trade. The treasure he removes is taken home to his elaborate burrow and displayed in his private museum. The nicest pack rat story concerns a miner. While he slept, a few worthless bits of metal were traded for a few nuggets of pure gold.

This tale may or may not be true. But certainly countless sleeping campers have been visited by pack rats, hoping to trade some attractive item for something else.

The little trader is about 9 inches long with a 9-inch tail, usually covered with fur. His fluffy coat is thick and silky, colored brown above and creamy white on his undersides. His home is an elaborate nest of twigs built on the ground. He has a separate bedroom, where he dozes during the daytime, and a storage room, plus that extra-special room where he displays his treasures.

Usually he lives alone until the courting season, when he may travel half a mile to call on a female. Being almost voiceless, he drums his feet to attract her attention. The young are born a month or so after mating, and often the male stays around awhile to help with the child care.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to Frances Maier, 12, of Lansing, Mich., for her question:

HOW DID THE BUTTERFLY GET ITS NAME?

Language experts go to endless trouble to trace the original meanings of our words and where they came from. For a long time they suspected that the word butterfly originated in the Middle East. It was given, they supposed, to a certain butter-colored insect that still flies around in that region. Then the original name was translated into English and shared by the butterflies of all colors.

Later investigations suggest that this is not the true story. Most likely the English word butterfly was invented by English-speaking people. However, nobody can explain why this particular name was chosen. Certainly butterflies fly around. But they have no special fondness for butter, and their gorgeous wings come in all colors of the rainbow.

Charges federal agency 'mistaken'

Ford fighting auto recall ruling

DETROIT (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co. said Thursday that the government was "mistaken" in ordering a recall of more than 600,000 1968 and 1969 Ford Mustangs and Mercury Cougars because of allegedly defective seat backs that could collapse.

Ford is considering whether to contest the order by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration in court. It would be the first test of a new law allowing the federal agency to order a recall at the manufacturer's expense.

Under a law signed last December, the safety administration can order the vehicles recalled and repaired at the auto company's expense. If the company decides to go to court, the owners of the vehicles still must be notified that a defect may exist and that the matter is in the courts.

PREVIOUSLY THE safety administration had the power only to suggest the vehicles be recalled for repairs and issue a consumer alert bulletin.

A Ford spokesman said owners of the cars should not be unduly worried about their seats collapsing since in every case only one of two brackets that hold the seat upright have broken, allowing the seat to tilt sideways rather than collapse completely.

H. R. Nolte Jr., a Ford vice president and the company's chief lawyer, said the alleged defect does not constitute a safety defect under the law.

"Ford built more than 800,000 of these vehicles in 1968 and 1969," he said. "All are now between six and eight years old ahd have traveled an estimated 50 billion miles.

"ONLY SIX CLAIMS of relatively minor property damage and 19 claims of minor injury — of the aching back and sore neck variety — have resulted from alleged pin failures," Nolte said.

But a safety report of the NHTSA said the failures do constitute a safety defect.

"The bracket failures can cause sudden partial collapse of the front seat backs, resulting in loss of vehicle control and possible accidents and injuries," the NHTSA said. "The defect report attributes the cause of the pin bracket failure to repeated occupant pressure against the seat back."

As Ford tried to decide if it will fight the government order, it announced a recall campaign involving 6,700 tandem-axle heavy trucks to find about 675 which need replacement of rear-axle housings that could break and allow wheels to fall off.

Ford said it had no reports of malfunctions, but said laboratory tests have indicated that extended use of the effected vehicles eventually could result in rear axle fractures. It said about 5,850 of the heavy trucks are in the United States, 830 in Canada and 20 in other parts of the world.

Bastable sees hope in baseball career

Bob Frisk
Sports Editor

Time passes. People forget.

New names emerge in sports, new heroes, but you never forget those very special ones from the past.

You never forget a Jack Bastable.

He was one of those do-everything athletes, a Frank Merriwell type with a flair for the dramatic, the game-winning touchdown, the key basket, the big base hit.

He did everything well and did it with style. He attracted a legion of admirers in the process, coaches, teammates and opponents, fans, people who came to appreciate his talent, his competitive spirit.

Don Schnake, football coach at Elk Grove, perhaps summed it up best when Bastable picked up his diploma from Wheeling High School in 1969:

"You know, I hate to see Jack graduate even though he kills us every time he plays," Schnake said. "It's just that he seems to typify so well what the athlete should be. That kind doesn't come around too often."

Respect — from both sides of the field, from the home side and the visitor's side. It was always that way. If he beat you, you were beaten by one of the best.

No, you don't forget a Jack Bastable, but the years do have a way of nudging even the great ones into the background, some permanently, some for just a short time.

When you look for Bastable today, six years later, you find him in Kutztown, Pa., not your most famous city in the United States but home now for Jack and his wife Patti. And this stop is not far from Reading, Pa., Bastable's baseball home.

The 24-year-old Bastable is a catcher in the Philadelphia Phillies' farm system, playing for Reading in the Double A Eastern League. That's just a couple steps away from the major leagues, big steps but steps this young man is confident he will climb.

"I feel great. I really think things look good for me now," Bastable said this August day as he waited to head for Reading and another night game.

Bastable knows what the Phillies have at their Triple A (Toledo) farm and with the big club. He's not afraid of competition. He sees hope for his future.

"I definitely feel I'm ready right now to play up there behind the plate," he said with confidence. "My hitting has run hot and cold (about .260 right now), but I've been moved around so much I think it affected my concentration."

And Bastable understands that in the catching fraternity even a .260 average is nothing to dismiss casually. He just knows he can do better. He hit .360 over three varsity seasons at Wheeling and .325 in his soph year at the University of Missouri.

"The hitting will come around. The big difference for me is that I'm back catching again after playing third base and the outfield, and even some at first. I just feel more involved in the game as a catcher and that's what I like. I want to feel I have some control over the outcome of every game."

Bastable's versatility always has worked in his favor, but right now, at this critical stage in his career, he just wants to concentrate on his work behind the plate and start making his move toward that lifelong dream — a major league career.

After his brilliant high school performances at Wheeling, where he was All-State in football and also all-conference in basketball and baseball, Bastable accepted a grid scholarship to Missouri under coach Dan Devine, now the head man at Notre Dame.

"The coach's television program (The Dan Devine Show) sold me on Missouri when I was in grade school in the St. Louis area and I never forgot," Bastable once recalled.

Baseball scouts were hopeful he would sign right from high school, but he attended college. "I wanted the education and Missouri football," he said, "and I knew that Missouri baseball over the years had been good, too. I have no regrets about that decision."

Bastable did play football and baseball at Missouri, very well in fact, but the professional scouts knocked again and Jack finally signed as a third baseman-outfielder with the Oakland A's after his senior year in football.

He was traded by Oakland to Philadelphia in May of 1973 in a straight player deal for Deron Johnson, now the leading home run and RBI man for the Chicago White Sox.

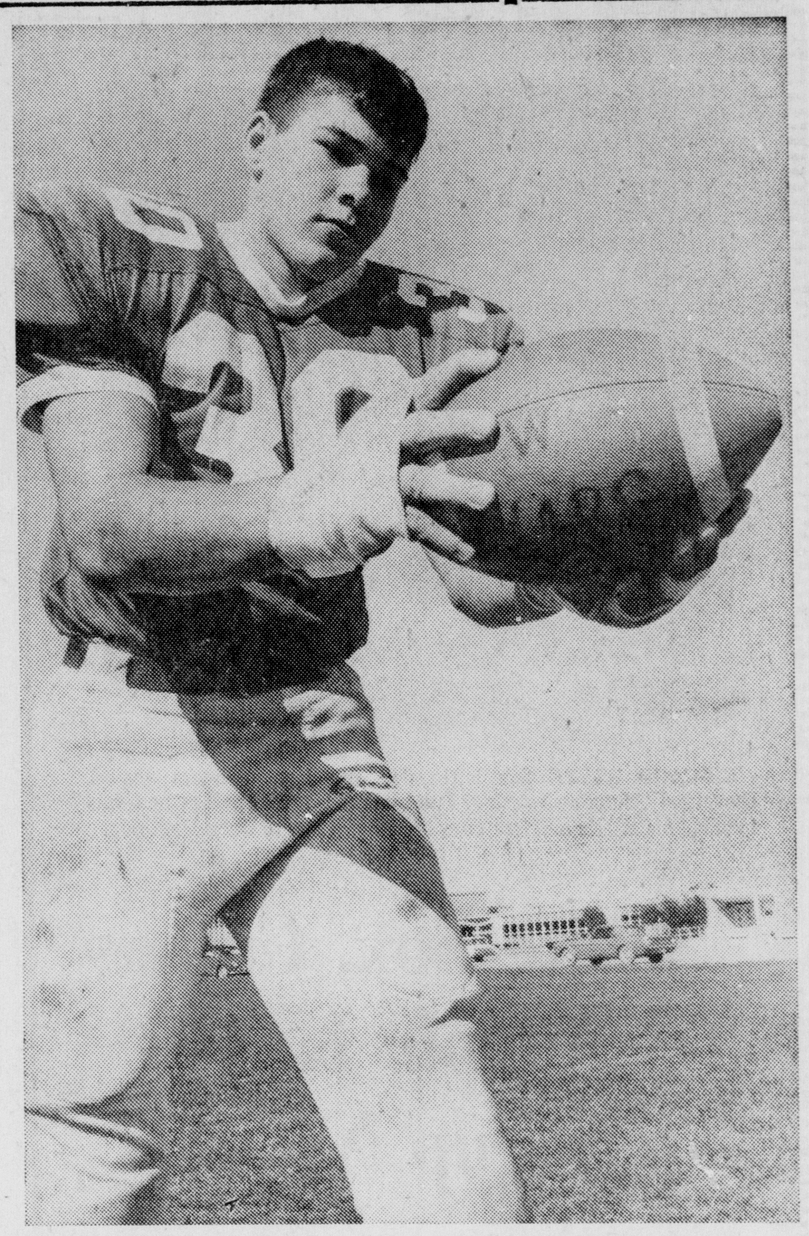
"Although they continued to use me at several positions, I always felt my best bet was catching," Jack said. "I actually started to push the idea a little myself and now I think I'll be able to do the job if I just stay in one position.

"This minor league life can be a little disheartening at times," he admitted, talking about his stops at Birmingham, Ala., Rocky Mount, N.C., and now Reading. "The conditions overall aren't that great although Reading has probably the best franchise in the Eastern League. But we do have some of those 12-hour bus trips to Canada, and you can't wait to get back home.

"If I didn't feel like I was progressing, I'd get out of baseball," he emphasized, acknowledging he is only one semester short of a college degree.

"But I honestly don't see that coming. Maybe I'll think differently if by the end of the 1976 season I just don't see any future. I'm happy with my progress now and Philadelphia is a tremendous organization.

"You know, an awful lot of guys just keep hanging on in baseball without any real hope. I don't ever want to be one of those."



FOOTBALL WAS just one of Jack Bastable's specialties at Wheeling High School. He was all-conference in three sports and All-State in football. Today, Bastable is in the Philadelphia Phillies' farm system, hoping to make the climb as a catcher to the major leagues.

All-Staters make good

When Jack Bastable of Wheeling High School earned All-State football honors in 1968, he had some interesting company at the halfback position.

Joining Bastable on the All-State team at halfback were such future big sports names as Otis Armstrong of Chicago Farragut and Bill Madlock of Decatur Eisenhower.

Armstrong, now playing for Denver, paced the National Football League in rushing last fall with 1,407 yards in 263 carries.

Madlock switched his professional pursuit to baseball and now ranks as the National League's leading hitter while playing third base for the Chicago Cubs.

As a senior at Decatur Eisenhower, Madlock rushed for 1,016 yards (8.0 per carry) and scored 17 touchdowns.

THE SEARCH IS ON by this twosome for a lost ball near the 17th hole at Buffalo Grove Golf Club — site of the 26th annual Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap Golf Tournament on Sunday. The 17th, a par 3, is the shortest hole on the course at 135 yards, but one of these players obviously was a little careless.

Seattle hosts championship

Irving-Lake stars open Sunday in national test

Seattle has been getting an unjustified bad rap from people for years.

Ask somebody the first thing they think of when you mention Seattle and, while some might say Perry Como or the Space Needle, most are going to say "rain."

Something about the image of Seattle, especially to people who have never been there, conjures images of used umbrella lots and citizens with permanently wrinkled fingertips.

The Irving-Lake All-Stars, who will carry the prestige of Illinois and Ohio Valley Senior Babe Ruth baseball with them to Seattle for the national tournament, may find they left most of the rain behind in the regional tournament at Ft. Knox, Ky.

"It rained every day we were in Kentucky," said Lou Bocci, "but they had that field in top shape. I know they do things first class in the national tournament so if it rains as much as I hear in Seattle I hope they can keep the field ready."

There's the rain again. In truth, Seattle is a piker compared to such precipitation capitals as Charleston, S.C., Galveston, Tex. and Jacksonville, Fla., all among the leaders in rainfall over a 24-hour period.

Compared to Charleston's 10.10 inches in a single day, Seattle's tops of 1.48 inches is almost arid.

So, while Bocci may not have any basis in fact for his fear of rainouts, he does have to watch out that his group of players from Streamwood, Hoffman Estates, Woodfield and Hanover Park don't get scrubbed by the seven other teams gathering to decide the national championship.

"We have to face the fact that we could lose two quickly and be out of the tournament," Bocci said. "I honestly don't think that will happen but there's always that chance to guard against.

"We know nothing about the other teams and they know nothing about us. There will be a lot of talent there though."

Bocci's Irving-Lake club has blitzed unbeaten through the state and regional tournaments on the strength of extremely finely timed hitting and extraordinary pitching.

"I can't imagine any team coming to this tournament that has better overall pitching than we do," Bocci

Tennis boom shows in rapid growth of Paddock tourney

by ART MUGALIAN

You might call it a "love" affair.

The extraordinary growth of tennis popularity in the past five years has brought the game from a country-club status to a grass roots form of entertainment as middle class as bowling.

Reflecting the boom in tennis — accompanied by a mass market invasion of tennis equipment and a glut of television coverage for the pro sport — is the steady development of the Paddock Tennis Tournament, sponsored jointly by Paddock Publications and the Arlington Tennis Club.

When the Paddock Tourney began in 1961, it was a one-event affair limited to mixed doubles competition. Nineteen teams took part in that first tournament.

When the 15th running of this popular event is staged Aug. 30-Sept. 1 the change in the format will be as dramatic as the rapid change in the sport itself.

The tourney has come a long way from the inaugural meeting a decade and a half ago, when Yvonne Foley of Mount Prospect and Bill Thompson of Arlington Heights swept past four opposing teams in mixed doubles to capture the first set of trophies in the Paddock competition. Foley and Thompson defeated Larry Brown and Ruth Rees, both of Arlington Heights, on the second day of play.

When this year's tourney begins it will feature two new divisions — Senior Men's Doubles (50 and over) and Vet Women's Doubles (45 and over) — plus the elimination of Boys 14-and-15 category. Boys and girls singles and doubles will be 15-and-under.

After several years of successful mixed doubles competition, the tourney's sponsors decided to add something to the play to bring out more players.

So in 1970, the Paddock Tournament expanded. There was no longer a mixed doubles event and in its place were men's and women's singles and boys and girls singles (under 18). Over 170 entrants participated in the tourney which took more than two weeks to complete due to heavy late-summer rains.

The winners that year — Greg Harris and Ginger Loughman in the junior division and Jack Laffey and Rachel Kotsaqis — had more competition to contend with in 1971 as the tournament expanded once again, this time drawing nearly 500 players into a 12-division field.

Loughman captures the girls singles and Laffey took the new junior vets title. But 1971 marked the real turning point for the Paddock Tennis Tourney. The new categories made it possible for more players to compete and gave that many more contestants an even chance to come away with a trophy.

With mor than 1,000 players entered in the tourney, this year will be a far cry from the 1962 tourney when Mr. and Mrs. Bob Fink of Palatine captured the mixed doubles honors with four straight match victories. Bob and Marjorie returned in 1963 to successfully defend their title when only 15 mixed doubles teams participated. The Finks went on to win five titles in a row.

The chance of such domination repeating grows slimmer each year as the Paddock Tennis Tournament grows and the talent in each division improves with age.

CHICAGO WHITE Sox lefthander Jim Kaat delivers against Cleveland Thursday evening. Kaat worked 7 1/3 innings and was touched for 10 hits and four runs before yielding to Dave Hamilton.

White Sox, Cubs triumph; Kaat picks up No. 17

They won at home, and they won on the road. It was a profitable night for Chicago baseball teams.

Lefthander Jim Kaat won his 17th game of the season, with relief help from Dave Hamilton, as the White Sox trimmed the Cleveland Indians, 6-4, in Chicago.

Rob Sperring and Steve Swisher each bunted in a run in the fourth inning, helping the Chicago Cubs score a 5-3 win over the Houston Astros in the Astrodome.

At Sox Park Hamilton survived two tense two-men-on situations in the eighth and ninth in relief of Kaat to preserve Chicago's 58th victory.

Cleveland took a 4-3 lead in the top of the seventh off Kaat, but the Sox fought back in their half on a home run by Pat Kelly and doubles by Jorge Orta and Deron Johnson. Bill Stein added an insurance run with an eighth inning homer.

Jerry Hairston doubled in one run and Kelly tripled home a pair to give the White Sox a 3-0 second inning lead. Cleveland then chipped away at Kaat until forcing the southpaw from the hill with one out in the eighth.

The Cubs' Jose Cardenal singled to lead off the fourth in Houston and moved to third on a single by Pete LaCock, who went to second on the throw. Sperring and then Swisher put down suicide squeeze bunts for two runs.

Houston tied the score 2-2 with Cliff Johnson's leadoff homer in the second and a single run in the third.

After the third, though, Cubs righthander Steve Stone shut out the Astros until the ninth.

Chicago added a run in the eighth on LaCock's sacrifice fly after Bill Madlock and Cardenal singled. The Cubs got their first run in the first when Rick Monday and Madlock walked and Monday scored all the way from second base on an infield out when nobody covered the plate. They made it 2-0 in the second when LaCock walked, moved to third on a single by Sperring and scored when Swisher grounded into a double play.

Irving-Lake in national finals

said. "I'm sure we'll see some kids who can throw smoke but our hitters feast on that sort of thing. Just the way our kids have thrown in the past two tournaments I'd put them up against anybody."

When the Ohio Valley Region champions take the field in Sick stadium, former home of the now defunct Seattle Pilots, against the Mid-Atlantic champions Sunday at 2:30 p.m. they will have seen most of the other teams in the field.

"We drew a bye so we'll get to see six of the teams play Saturday," Bocci said. "That will tell us a lot about what we can expect."

What opponents of Irving-Lake can expect is a little sleight-of-hand in the batting order, a liberty allowed Bocci by the kind of talent he has on his team.

"I'm going to hide (Jim) Dastice in the eighth spot in the lineup," Bocci said. "Most team's get down that far in the batting order and they start looking ahead to the one-two-three hitters.

"If they do that with Dastice he'll kill them."

Dastice was 9-for-12 in the state meet, including seven straight hits, and will bring up the rear of a line-up that is splitting at the seams with good hitters.

Lou Bocci

Bocci's card for the opener will include Glenn Stromberg at second base, Pete Pavich at shortstop, Russ Zonca behind the plate, Jeff Ironside at third base, Al Pondel or Keith Abraham pitching, Jim Cole in centerfield, Gary Frontier in leftfield, Dastice at first base and Gary Oslance or Glenn Laney in rightfield.

The pitching staff which Bocci is so excited about revolves around Pondel, Abraham, Tim Domek and Mark Koss. Through 56 innings in two tournaments, the Irving-Lake staff surrendered just eight earned runs, a 1.28 ERA.

Shelbyville normal

Lake Shelbyville has been at near normal pool with water temperatures in the low 80s, the Illinois Department of Conservation said, and anglers report murky water near tributary stream areas.

Fishing varies from spotty to good for crappie; spotty to good for white bass; poor to spotty for largemouth bass; poor for walleye, and fair for channel cats.

Applauds AAU Swimming work

Dear Mike Klein
and Sports Editors,

Thank you for your article on AAU swimming in the Friday, July 25, edition of the Herald. AAU swimming in this area receives very little attention and any publicity helps to bolster this sport.

However, there are a few things that most AAU swimmers and parents would like clarified. Although high school swimming is an important part of our sport, the AAU clubs by and far develop the swimmers that eventually reach the highest goal in swimming. . .the Olympics. It is the girl or boy at age seven or eight who swims with an AAU club and who works out two-to-four hours daily for approximately three hundred days out of the year who may get to eventually place in the top ten nationally when he or she is in their teens.

It is the coach of an AAU club who may see their kids get to the top one day. . .a coach like George Haines, Mark Shubert or Sherm Chavoor who, by the way, developed and coached Mark Spitz from the time he was nine years old through the Munich Olympics, not Doc Councilman who has wrongly gotten too much of the credit for Spitz.

It is the parents of the AAU swimmers who spend their weekends at AAU meets and who willingly drive their child fifteen-to-twenty miles one way to swim daily with an AAU club that may see their offspring make it big.

High school swimming consumes only a few months of each of a swimmer's four years in high school. High school swim coaches in general do not follow their swimmers through AAU swimming and most will never be found on deck at an AAU meet.

The dedication, determination and hard work that an AAU swimmer must possess is only found in a high school swimmer if he is affiliated with an AAU club. Where else do you find a ten-year old boy or a twelve-year old girl, for instance, who willingly goes to bed every night at nine o'clock, who will consciously eat well balanced meals, who will be up at six o'clock in the morning to be at workout by seven or will give up a slumber party in order to keep in shape for a big meet?

Thanks again for your article but "St. Viator swimmers sparkle in AAU" was a poor title when so few of the IHSA swimmers attended the CAAU Junior Olympics compared to the hundreds of year-around AAU swimmers.

WATCHING TIGERS CLOSELY

Dear Sirs,

I'm just sitting here looking at your national sports section and I noticed that the Texas Rangers beat the Detroit Tigers last night, 7-0. As far as I can remember that must be Detroit's 15th or 16th straight loss.

I'm well aware the American League record is 20 straight and the major league record 24 and I'm beginning to wonder what it's like playing for a team that has a good chance at breaking both of them.

I think any ballplayer is looking for some sort of recognition and since the Tigers obviously aren't going to become famous for exceptional play I think many of them might secretly relish the chance of playing for the most futile team in baseball history.

It would be the same sort of fame that the early New York Mets gained with their buffoonery.

So I wouldn't be too surprised to hear of the Tigers blowing easy plays, whether consciously or unconsciously, as their Magic Number climbs toward immortality.

Cake Box holds VFW advantage

Cake Box is still hanging on in first place in the V.F.W. Golf League at Old Orchard Country Club after Monday night's play.

With only two weeks left, the point spread between Cake Box in first place and Kehe Motors in tenth is only 20, which has been picked up by most of the teams at one time during the season. This is the first time in recent years that all the teams have been so evenly matched.

Only four birdies were shot, two by Darryl Burkett on the fourth and ninth. The others were scored by Ed Wells on the fifth and Harvey Bartholomew on the eighth.

Burkett also took low gross honors with an even par 36 on the front nine while Pappy "Duke" Kopplin captured low net with a 44-16-38 on the back nine.

Prospect football begins Monday

Prospect High School varsity football coach Dave Keefe has announced equipment issue for next Monday morning.

Varsity candidates will receive gear from 8:30 a.m. until 10:30 a.m., followed by sophomores from 10:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. and freshmen from 1:30 p.m. until 3:30 p.m.

First practices will be conducted at 3:30 p.m. the same day for all levels.

Physical examination reports and parental permission forms must be submitted to Athletic Director George Gattas' office before any athlete will be allowed to receive equipment.

Jage shoots ace on 12th at Prospect Country Club

Mrs. Gen Jage conquered the 155-yard par-3 12th hole at Mount Prospect Country Club with a hole-in-one recently.

Mrs. Jage, of 107 W. Lonnquist, was playing with Louise Lauing and Jackie Rogosh.

Palatine to issue gear Monday

Palatine High School will kick off its 1975 football season with the issue of equipment next Monday, Aug. 18.

Coach Arv Herstedt has announced that the varsity, juniors and seniors, should report in running gear at 8 a.m. Monday.

Following an initial workout equipment will be issued to the varsity at 9 a.m.

Sophomores should report at 11 a.m. and freshmen will be issued equipment and shoes at 1 p.m. Practice times for the sophomores and freshmen will be determined by their coaches.

The varsity will engage in two-a-day workouts next week at 8 a.m. and 1 p.m. to launch the '75 campaign.

Stembridge, Wurtz honor

Jody Stembridge and Tricia Wurtz, both of Hersey High School, were recently selected as Prep Track and Field "Athletes of the Year" by the editors of COACH AND ATHLETE magazine.

Nominations for the honor were made earlier this spring by track and field coaches from across the nation, who were invited to nominate the top athletes from their team. Criteria for the nominations include athletic ability, including statistics and over-all performance, sportsmanship and personal leadership displayed during the season.

The "Athletes of the Year" is an annual honor roll paying tribute to the more than 900,000 track and field participants across the country.

Mackinaw trout

Bryan Wilson of Sandy, Utah, has caught the largest Mackinaw trout ever landed in Yellowstone Park.

Wilson hooked the 34-pound monster in Shoshone Lake during a recent trip. The trout was 39½ inches long and 26 inches around the middle.

Wilson said the fish hit a bass lure. He battled the trout for 90 minutes on a six pound line. "It ran out all the line a couple of times," he said. "I had over 200 feet out and it looked like it was going straight down."

Mullady bringing five horses to yearling sale

When Walter Mullady won the Leahy Medallion for thoroughbred racing at the third Annual Frank Leahy Awards Dinner in Oak Brook last February, few people in the room could really appreciate what Mullady has done for the Illinois thoroughbred industry.

The people who chose Mullady for the award were either very lucky, or they actually knew what they were doing.

Mullady, long a champion of the Illinois thoroughbred industry, has probably done more to enhance the position of the Illinois racing industry throughout the country than any other man in the past 10 years. His fine stallion, Buffalo Lark, who was syndicated last spring for more than $600,000, started making the rest of the country take notice when he won the $100,000-added Arlington Handicap last September. Buffalo Lark has since notched victories in several other important stakes races and ended the 1974 season as the leading money earner for the nation's leading sire of progeny earners, T.V. lark.

But as important as Mullady's success in the racing end of the business, has been his support of the Illinois breeding industry. Last year at the Illinois Thoroughbred Breeders and Owners Foundation Select Yearling Sale at Arlington Park, he proved that an Illinois-foaled horse could bring a price worthy of the famed Keeneland Summer Sale in Lexington, Ky. He consigned a colt by T.V. Lark and the colt topped the sale with a price of $42,000.

This year, Mullady will be back at the sale with another T.V. Lark colt as well four other yearlings, emerging as the sale's leading consignor in numbers of horses.

His five horses will be among a total of 25 that will go on auction block tonight at 7:00 p.m. in the paddock at Arlington Park.

Mullady is one of many who believe in the future of the Illinois breeding industry. He believes in it, most probably, because he believes in himself. He has believed in himself all his life.

A farm boy from Buffalo, Ill., he left home in 1922 to attend Loyola University of Chicago. He graduated in 1926 and proceeded to make the rest of his life one success after another.

The first of those successes was the Decatur Cartage Company, which grew into a trucking empire. He was a founder of the American Trucking Association (ATA) and a noted industry spokesman on both the local and national levels.

In the '50s, when he was president of the ATA, he organized the Michigan Avenue National Bank of Chicago and today is the chairman of the board.

But it wasn't until 10 years ago that Mullady bought his first race horse. A year later, he bought Rogers Red Top Farm, (Libertyville) as well as a share in T.V. Lark. He has been going strong ever since.

His colt by T.V. Lark is one of two by that sire that will be offered tonight at Arlington Park. The other is consigned by Jim McHugh's Windward Farm of Mundelein. Both should bring a tidy sum.

At last month's Keeneland Sale, 10 T.V. Larks sold for an average of $52,700. In that average was a top price of $130,000 for a full sister to Buffalo Lark.

The quality of the bloodlines of the sale's offerings does not end with the T.V. Larks. There are, for example, two Whisper Jets, a Decidedly, A Mongo, a Mickey McGuire, A Duel, and a Fleet Nasrullah as well as offspring by Alley Fighter, Beau Purple, Bolero U., Connaught, Court Recess, Distillate, Farm to Market, Flame Tree, Larum, Manifesto, Semi-Pro, Tinsley, Judgable, Jaipurville, King's Song and Tudor Grey.

Windward Farm, which has four horses in the sale altogether, has the Mongo, Fleet Nasrullah and one of the Whisper Jet yearlings, as well as its T.V. Lark colt. Mongo's statistics are perhaps the most impressive of the lot. In four years of racing, the horse won $820,766 and was honored as champion grass horse. At stud, Mongo, through September, 1974, had sired the winners of $2,165,173 in North America.

Fleet Nasrullah, who earned $223,150 at the races, has sired 36 stakes winners and the winners of a whopping $7,191,774, and Whisper Jet, a grandson of Count Fleet, is a well-known Illinois stallion who ran in the company of the likes of Buckpasser and Dr. Fager.

Another impressive pedigree is carried by a roan filly by Decidedly, out of the mare Nymph. Decidely is the Kentucky Derby winner who won $318,989 in four years of racing and Nymph is the well-bred mare by Sun Again, out of The Damsel. The filly is consigned by T.J. Bottom of Cuba, Mo.

Last year, a filly by the stakes winning stallion Duel brought the sale's third highest price of $30,000. That filly was consigned by Richard L. Duchossois' Hill 'N Dale Farm of Barrington. There is another Dual yearling, a bay colt out of the mare Wensleydale, in this year's sale, consigned by Harold Griffith of Nashville, Ill. Duel is by Round Table, himself by Princequillo.

Hill 'N Dale this year is the consignor of two yearlings and agent for a third — a bay filly by Judgable, a chestnut filly by Whisper Jet and a bay filly by Manifesto.

Another entry that should be noted is a colt by Larum who is a full brother to Sweet Larum, one of only three Illinois colts on the 1974 Experimental Free Handicap who last month won the Illinois Sophomore Stakes at Cahokia Downs. The colt is out of Warmajay, by Re-Shuffle and is consigned by Gene Ackerman of Carmi, Ill.

The directors of the Illinois Thoroughbred Breeders and Owners Foundation are looking forward to a sale average even higher than the $11,076 of last year, which was the third best average among U.S. select yearling sales in 1974, behind only Keeneland and Saratoga.

The $11,076 average, although it is well below the $53,637 average of the 1975 Keeneland Summer Sale is impressive nonetheless in considering that this was the ITBOF's first such venture and that Keeneland didn't reach the $11,000 plateau until 1955, its 12th year. The Keeneland average didn't hit $20,000, in fact, until 1967. The recent jump in Keeneland's average has been due substantially to that sale's number of $50,000-plus offerings. In 1973, for example 13 per cent of that sale's horses sold in excess of $100,000 paid for a colt by Bold Ruler.

This year's Illinois sale will again be conducted for the ITBOF by Fasig-Tipton Company, New York. Catalogues may be obtained at Arlington Park Race Track from Racing Secretary Tommy Trotter or from public relations director Tom Rivera.

Maine West issues cross country call

Maine West High School's 1975 cross country season begins Monday, Aug. 18, at 8 a.m.

Boys who want to run on the team this fall should report to the cross country locker room on the far side of the indoor track. Boys that have not made their doctor's appointment are urged to do so immediately as they cannot work out without the cards.

The first meet is only three weeks away, opening their season with two away meets. They travel to Evanston Sept. 4 and then participate in the thirteen-school Crystal Lake Invitational the following weekend.

Salmon-trout stamp

Illinois now has a salmon-trout stamp which will go on sale next March along with the 1976 fishing licenses.

Anyone required to have a fishing license who is fishing for salmon or trout in Illinois waters will also be required to purchase the $2 salmon-trout stamp.

Gov. Daniel Walker signed the bill which provides for the stamp. The proceeds are earmarked to fund the new cold water fish hatchery.

Other conservation legislation awaiting gubernatorial action includes a state $5 migratory waterfowl stamp.

Freshman and Sophomore from 8 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturday, Aug. 16.

All participants must have a physical examination and a signed parent permit card as well as football insurance or a waiver form. They must also furnish their own lock.

Conant golf team schedules first meeting

Big racing card at clay speedway

Santa Fe Speedway defending late model champion Jimmy O'Connor of Kankakee, strangely silent all year, has become ignited all of a sudden and will try to stay "red hot" this Saturday and Sunday night, as Santa Fe hosts another exclusive weekend of clay oval stock car races. Along with 30-lap main events for late model pilots and 25-lappers for sportsman on both nights, Sunday's show highlights a rarity in auto sports — a women's team demolition race. Starting time for both shows is 8 p.m. with time trials set for 7:15.

Santa Fe Speedway hosts action-packed stock car races each Saturday and Sunday night. Thrill-packed motorcycle races, climaxed by the nationally prestigous Short-Track Grand National Championship tonight, are a regular Santa Fe exclusive.
